BIG RED IN BIG D

WOODROW WILSON—a school of prideful achievement, of honored tradition, yet also of youth and gaiety in DALLAS—a progressive city of life, of adventure; a modern city with its roots in the Old West; the center of fashion and culture for all of Texas, her feet planted firmly in the rich black soil, but her head lifted to the sky. A great school in a great city—Big Red in Big D.

Metropolitan Dallas is filled with places that hold memories for a Wilsonite—athletic stadiums ranging from the new Forester Stadium to the Cotton Bowl; libraries where so much time was spent; The State Fair on High School day; and, last stop in a Woodrow Wilson's Wildcat's career, the State Fair Music Hall on graduation night.

Big Red in Big D—two places of great influence on your life; your school and your city: both hold many fond memories of your years as a Wildcat.

A rare view of the auditorium was caught by the photographer early one morning as the first arrivals came drifting in.

A teacher built a temple;
 She wrought with skill and care;
 Forming each pillar with patience,
 Laying each stone with prayer.
 None saw the unceasing effort;
 None knew of the marvelous plan;
 For the temple the teacher builded,
 Was unseen by the eyes of man.

This biology exhibit was one of many which attracted Wilsonites' attention.

MARCH EVENTS FEATURE SENIOR PLAY AND STUDENT CRAFTS FAIR

What, a birthday party in the girls gym? The excited guests are Eric Aanenson, Jennifer Keasler, Mike Dossett, Vona Cowley, and Jerry Griffin.

Mary Ann Bedell, Nancy Kelly, Diane Thomson, and Carmyn McKinney were attracted by the billboard previewing the senior play.

"My David will take care of me," sighs Bertha (Vicki Orrick) to her worried mother (Mary Gill).

Boswell Bancroft, who went to join the angels, was portrayed by Hugh Blevins in the '62 Senior Play, "Bertha, the Beautiful Typewriter Girl."

In the spring, the students' fancy took on a new slant as studies were combined with the Senior Play and the Student Crafts Fair. Students in the math and science classes worked hard on their projects to be entered in the Crafts Fair held on March 9.

As the Senior Play got underway, costumes had to be made, scenery constructed, and parts rehearsed and rehearsed. "Bertha the Beautiful Typewriter Girl," was a typical melodrama. The Can-Can girls opened the program with their high kicking, and the audience settled back for a show about the "naughty nineties." Between acts the dance corps presented "Down By the Sea" which added to the pure vaudeville and Melodrama evening.

"On A Sunday By the Sea" featured these bathing beauties during the Olio Extravaganzas.

Miss Parsons presents a driving trophy to Robin Hill. Robin won first place in the 1962 Rodeo.

Larry Mauldin introduced the Concert Choir which sang "Balm In Gilead."

SENIOR ACTIVITIES MIX NOSTALGIA WITH GAIETY

With the spring assembly introducing the 1962-63 cheerleaders and drill team, the seniors began to realize how few days were left in their carefree life as a senior in high school. The seniors grew sad as they rehearsed for graduation exercises and watched their final assembly. The happy activities of graduation season included teas, coke parties, picnics, the Senior Breakfast during Senior Week, the long-awaited Senior Prom at the Sheraton-Dallas Hotel, and the all-night party, sponsored by the parents, at the SMU Student Center.

Stanley Baker portrays a typical sophomore as he showed us his ability to play basketball.

Sad faces lined the rows as the seniors watched their last assembly.

Glen Robertson and Randy Smith agree it's too hot to attend school during the summer while Mary Jane Cullum manages to smile despite the heat.

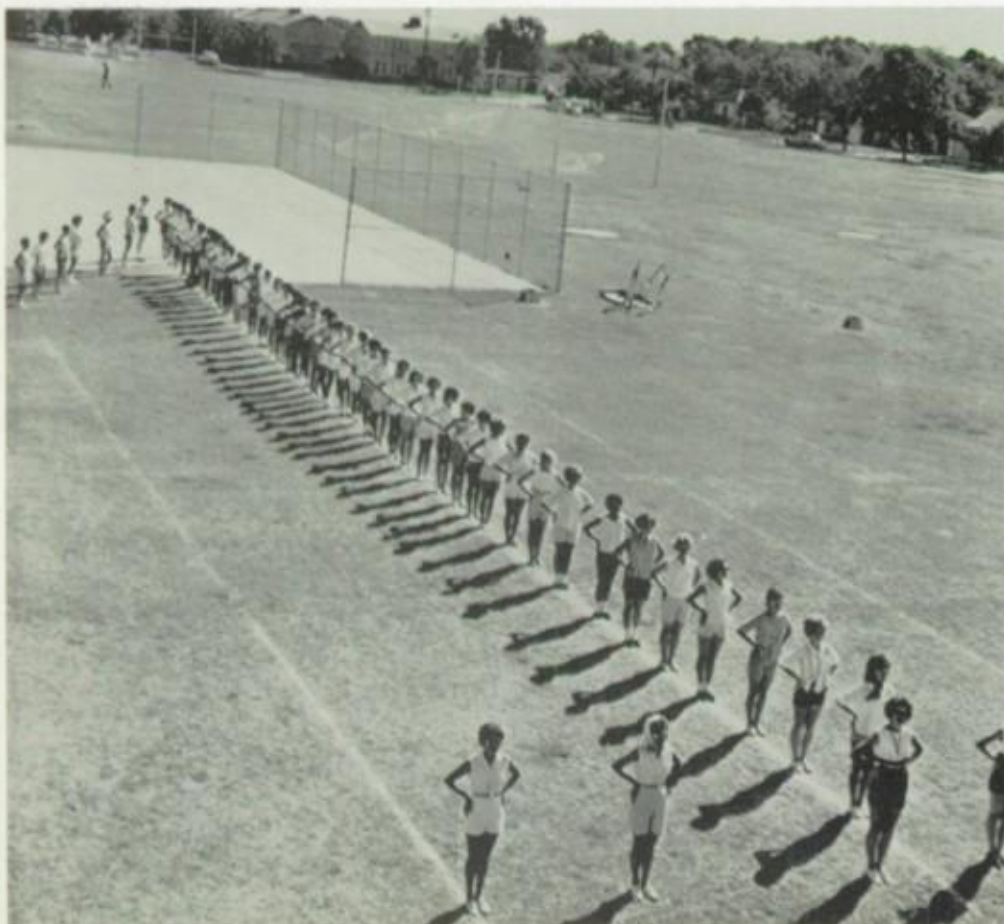

SUMMER WAS GREAT, BUT SO IS WOODROW

Summer was the time when Woodrow Wilson students went water-skiing and played tennis on warm afternoons. Many planned vacation trips to other states. Several went as far south as Mexico. Summer camps were fun for those who were counselors or campers even though there was danger of getting poison ivy. Six Flags was a favorite place for many Wilsonites who wanted to spend a fun-filled day learning about Texas History.

Some Wildcats had to turn aside some of these activities and take the responsibility of working at a summer job or attending summer school. Students gave up their time to do volunteer work in hospitals, churches, and city parks.

As summer ripened, signs of life began to show at Woodrow. The janitors began to clean the rooms and polish the floors. Carpenters worked hurriedly to finish remodeling the chemistry lab. The football team started to practice in the mornings and afternoons in order to be in good shape when the football season started. The drill team and Wildcat band were half eager, half reluctant to return to their alma mater to prepare the routines for the half-time activities at the games. The CRUSADER staff worked wearily trying to finish the first sixteen pages of the 1963 yearbook. Exchange students arriving in Dallas for the first time were greeted by new friends and were assured that nothing could be finer than a new exciting year at Woodrow Wilson.

The sweethearts practiced their precision drill until it was perfect to be assured of good halftime activities at the games.

These onlookers have a birdseye view of the band and drill-team as they practice one of their halftime routines.

Among the students who found the little red school at Six Flags very interesting were Charlotte Hetherington, Jane Chapman, Kay Brumage, Carmyn McKinney, Julia Brown, and Sherie Pardoe.

Six Flags proved to be one of the most popular places of recreation this summer. These Woodrow students enjoyed a Saturday afternoon despite the heat and large crowds.

VARIED ACTIVITIES MADE THE SUMMER MONTHS PASS MUCH TOO QUICKLY

One of the new exchange students, Sibile Burmester, arrived at the airport on August 31 and was greeted by her new family and friends.

Darrell Wooten, Woodrow's famous semi-official announcer, not only announced band numbers as here, but also announced the band and drill team at the half-time shows.

SEPTEMBER, NOT JUNE, IS MONTH OF REBIRTH AT W. W.

The autumn days of September, which brought students to the empty halls of Woodrow, were fun-filled days for all. The 1962-63 Cheerleaders, Larry Locke, Betsy Hill, Gary Smith, Dimi Athens, Tommy Greer, and Susan Hines, displayed the superb ability they acquired at S.M.U. during the summer. The Woodrow Wilson Sweethearts and Band also showed their superb ability by displaying intricate performances in assemblies and half-time shows. The 1962-63 football season began with a spirit-lifting pep assembly before the first game, which was with the Samuell Spartans.

Other exciting events which September brought forth were the P.T.A. Fall Round-Up, Junior Achievement, and Space Education assemblies. Many Woodrow students, with their extraordinary talents, participated in the Fall Round-Up, whose general theme was "Six Flags Over Texas." This year's Round-Up King and Queen, Larry Locke and Betsy Hill, two Wildcat cheerleaders, were presented at the Round-Up show.

Margaret Tinsley, Nancy Robinson, Monty Strauss, Shannon Harrison, Roger Hillsman, and Melinda Deason look excited as they were announced the semi-finalists in the National Merit Contest.

The long awaited Round-Up King and Queen winners, Larry Locke and Betsy Hill, were announced by Mr. Smith the night of the Fall Round-Up dinner and show.

The P.T.A. worked busily after school preparing for the annual Fall Round-Up dinner and variety show, September 27.

FALL ROUND-UP AND ASSEMBLIES PUT STUDENTS IN MOOD FOR SCHOOL AND ACTIVITIES

The pretty Miss J.A., Sherie Pardoe, talked about Junior Achievement and its opportunities for high school students to learn of business activities.

Mr. Jack D. Shattuck, experienced science educator for N.A.S.A., presented a lecture and demonstration introducing the principles of space flight and space activities to the student body, September 12.

BOYS WANT TO BE GIRLS . . .

These are not exactly perfect specimens of the 1962-63 Drill Team, but these substitutes gave a good routine performance on the Adamson-Woodrow assembly.

Sweethearts are not waving to the football boys but are going through a precision hand drill at the Bryan Adams-Woodrow game.

. . . AND VICE-VERSA

These football players surely look feminine! Maybe it is because they are portrayed by some pretty Wildcat girls on the Adamson-Woodrow pep assembly.

The football team rests during yells as the rest of the student body cheers the team to victory.

As the month of October approached, students began to think of their first holiday, High School Day at the Fair, with its roller coaster, fun house, and corny dogs. The fun-filled day was brought to a climax when the "Echos" won honorable mention with a medley of popular songs.

Clubs began to organize and students were urged to join. Chilly weather did not seem to keep the football fans at home, as the football season got fully underway. A program, "Hail, Dear Crusader," started "C" Week off with a bang.

Amid the excitement of assemblies and football, the Sadie Hawkins dance brought enjoyment to dateless girls and penniless boys. The winners of the "best dressed" contest were Stanley Baker and Nancy McCormick, Pat Rorex and Paul Shufeldt, Eugene Burch and Jackie Donze.

Jerry Shopher kneels at Ronnie Wyatt's feet, not to praise him, but to sign his cast. Ronnie injured his foot in the Bryan Adams game.

FOOTBALL, ASSEMBLIES, AND CHILLY WEATHER MARK OCTOBER ACTIVITIES

Sweetheart Captains Anita Pou, Johnnasue Melton, Sharon Stone, and Sherie Pardoe display not only their beauty, but also their dancing ability on the "Beat Bryan Adams" assembly.

"There's Bells In Our Hearts" sing Patty Bowers, Jennie Gray, Dede Boyd, Candy Topham, and Rene Ferguson on the Mobil Stage at Fair Park during the High School Day Talent Competition. The Echos were accompanied by Kathy Hamilton and Robert Welsh.

These Wildcat football fans enjoy hamburgers and R.C.'s at an after-game party in Jackie Rieves' back yard.

WILDCATS ENJOY FAIR DAY, DANCES, AND PARTIES

These costumes may be a little more extravagant than those worn during the "Dog Patch Days," but Ricky White, Nancy Slaughter, Jane Mackey, and Leonard Robinson surely do look stylish while having a good time at the Sadie Hawkins Dance.

In a dramatic finish to the last football pep assembly of the year the varsity squad members solemnly sang the alma mater.

NOVEMBER ACTIVITIES BLEND WITH OCTOBER'S, AS THE END OF 1962 APPROACHES.

Steve Brin shows the trophy he was presented by the Optimist Club for Youth Appreciation Week. Steve was one of fourteen boys chosen in the city of Dallas.

Mike Robinson and Lana Philips practiced the Scripture which Mike read on Crusader Assembly. Lana played the background music on the organ for the Scripture reading on most assemblies during the year.

Beverly Benthul greeted the many parents and visitors that came to Woodrow on Tuesday night, November 9, during American Education Week. American Education Week promotes parent teacher relationship and also works in behalf of the student.

November was highlighted by several major events at Woodrow Wilson High School. The traditional homecoming game and dance brought excitement to everyone. The students enjoyed seeing the exes of Woodrow, and the highlight of the night came with the crowning of the Homecoming Queen, Betsy Hill. Four other finalists were Sandra Duckworth, Beverly Benthul, Joan McCullough and Diane Hilley. The students enjoyed the homecoming pep assembly put on by the sophomores. They humorously depicted several of the senior personalities seen around the school. The assembly proved effective, as was shown by the 14-7 victory over the Hillcrest Panthers.

American Education Week was held during one week of November. The school had open house on Tuesday, November 9, so that parents and teachers could have a chance to meet each other. The orchestra gave a thirty-minute performance of fine music before the rooms opened at 8:15. Classrooms were decorated with posters and other displays of work by the students. The Parent Teachers Association gave each teacher a red carnation corsage or boutonniere.

The Crusader staff presented a play, "A Typical Day in Mr. Allen's Room," on the annual assembly, depicting humorous scenes which "occurred" while working on the yearbook. This started off the week in which the annuals were sold at a reduced rate.

After many weeks of hard work, excitement, and fun, the month was brought to an end by the Thanksgiving holidays. To remind Woodrow students of the true meaning of Thanksgiving, the concert choir sang, and the pastor of East Dallas Christian Church, Dr. Welsh, brought the message on our assembly.

"All you have to do is punch this button," explains Liz Bardin (sophomore) to the expert photographer Mike Roinson during the Crusader Assembly.

The sophomores presented the last pep assembly of the football season. To say that their portrayal of several seniors was very amusing is putting it mildly.

NOVEMBER'S REMEMBERED MOST FOR HOMECOMING, OPEN HOUSE, AND THANKSGIVING

The suspense and anxiety of the students was over when Mr. Smith crowned Betsy Hill as the Homecoming Queen for 1962-63. Everyone was pleased with the results including her escort Steve Mabry.

The excitement of the holiday season hit Woodrow Wilson with a bang as the musical revue, "Faraway Places," was presented after more than a month of preparation. Under the able direction of Mr. Williams, Miss Eckelman, and Mrs. Hoyle, the production was given in two night performances to the veterans' hospital and to the student body. In the show Winkem, Blinkem, and Nod took everyone to such places as Siam, Italy, France, and then back to the "good ole U.S.A." Excitement and anticipation continued to prevail as Christmas became the primary interest. The last few weeks were filled with Christmas parties in the various clubs. Several clubs brought candy and presents to give to underprivileged children.

An added event to an already-filled calendar was the Christmas Dance sponsored by the military department.

Along with the accustomed prevailing holiday cheer, there was a tenseness in the air as approximately 180 girls awaited anxiously the announcement of the new "Sweethearts" which was made the last school day before the holidays.

The annual Christmas assembly was acclaimed as beautiful as ever. Religious music was presented by the Concert Choir and Girls' Choir. The Concert Choir proceeded down the aisle singing "O Come All Ye Faithful," played by the Brass Choir. The program inspired everyone with the true spirit of Christmas as school adjourned until January, 1963.

The wintry days of December were ended by the drill team tryouts. The four present drill team captains, led the 1963-64 Sweetheart applicants in precision steps and drills as the drill team hopefuls strived to win the favor of the judges.

The unexpected January cold fronts were welcomed by the twenty-one Wildcat football lettermen, since the frigid weather provided an excellent reason for displaying the new 1963 red and gray letter jackets, which were issued during this month.

The annual drill team banquet was held at Webb's Chicken Garden. The highest point of the evening was the announcement of the new captains, Ann Peterson, Barbara Bailey, Patricia Dean, and Diane Allen.

Exams climaxed the month of January as the hour of midnight found many students cramming for knowledge that should have been learned in past weeks.

With mid-term exams near and new books on review in the library, many studious Wilsonites, including John Dyer, Darrell Nauyokas, Sandy Sands, and Don Sternberg, crammed into the library during their study hall period to study for exams and examine the new books.

"Girls, Girls, Girls . . ." filled the gym after the halls of Woodrow were deserted. The occasion . . . drill team tryouts for the 1963-64 Sweethearts. Miss Wiladean Bless explained the requirements and procedures to the new drill team prospects.

JANUARY ENDS, BEGINS SEMESTER

Drill Team Captain Anita Pou presents Patricia Dean with the traditional rose and whistle as Patricia was announced one of the 1963-64 Sweetheart captains.

Mixed emotions at the Sweetheart banquet prevailed as the long-awaited names of new captains were announced. Captain Sharron Stone tries to calm Ann Peterson one of the new 1963-64 Drill Team captains.

"... and the old gives way to the new" and the 1962-63 Drill Team captains gave way to the newly elected 1963-64 captains. The old and new captains are Sherie Pardoe, Ann Peterson, Barbara Bailey, Sharron Stone, Miss Wiladean Bless (sponsor), Anita Pou, Patricia Dean, Dianne Allen, and Johnasue Melton. Each of the four newly elected captains holds a rose and a whistle as a symbol of her new honor.

CAREER CONFERENCE PROVIDES VALUABLE INFORMATION FOR THE STUDENTS

Sponsored jointly by the Altrusa and Kiwanis Clubs of Dallas, the Career Conference was held on February 21, 1963. Career Conference has become an annual February occurrence since its beginning in 1957.

It was looked forward to by Woodrow students because it was the one day of the year they could miss their classes legally and attend conferences concerning occupations in which they were interested.

Weeks before the special day each student made two choices as to possible occupations. These were made in counseling classes and tabulated so speakers could be engaged. Representatives of various professions were then invited to Woodrow to speak on the details of their vocations, type and cost of education necessary, pitfalls and highlights and probable income—all to be part of the picture. Each speaker was assigned to a Student Council member to be introduced during the session.

Assistant School Superintendent R. H. McKay was the main speaker on the assembly. After his address speakers were introduced by the council members.

Who were the speakers? Home economist, mortician, doctor, teacher, to name a few; in fact, "What's My Line?" could have had a field day at Career Conference! Coffee and sweet rolls were served to the career speakers before the general assembly and coffee later as they evaluated the conference. Principal C. C. Smith reported that the evaluations were most complimentary to the conference organizer, Assistant Principal J. H. Malone, to the faculty and student body.

Other activities in February included the announcement of the favorites and the announcement of the new members of the National Honor Society.

Student council representative, Charles Wilson, greets the speaker on professional sports with a friendly handshake. Each speaker was assigned to a council member to introduce during the sessions.

Newly elected favorites listen with enthusiasm to Mr. Allen, "Crusader" sponsor, as he tells them the procedure for having pictures made.

Starting the career conference day in the right direction, Mr. R. H. McKay of the Dallas School Administration staff spoke to the students about their role in the future.

CLASS FAVORITES ELECTED IN FEBRUARY

Hostess Susan Rowse shows the friendly Woodrow hospitality as she serves coffee to the career women who spoke to the students during the conference sessions.

MUSICAL TAKES STUDENTS TO THE LAND OF "OZ."

As in every play the finale comes, and so it is done in the "Wizard of Oz." Indeed, it is a fine play, and an equally fine cast assembles on stage for the last time.

Nancy Slaughter as the Good Sorceress in the "Wizard of Oz," demonstrates her amazing dancing ability as she performs her solo before the Snowflakes.

The month of March was highlighted by the presentation of "The Wizard of Oz," a mammoth production utilizing the combined talents of the speech, art, and music departments. Presented on Feb. 28 and March 1, the "Wizard" played both nights to capacity audiences ready and eager to begin their journey "over the rainbow."

The musical's cast was headed by Sandy Meridith as Dorothy. Other leads included Beverly Benthul as the Wicked Witch, Danny Neill as the Cowardly Lion, Nancy Slaughter as the Sorceress of the North, Joan McCullough as Gloria, and Shannon Harrison as the Mayor of Munchkinland. Alternating their parts for the two nights were John Payne and Lucky Russell as the Tinman, and Darrell Wooten and Jimmy Cannon as the Scarecrow. Recruited from the Little Theater and Concert Choir, the cast was under the direction of Miss Helen Eckelman and Mrs. Sue Hoyle.

Many other groups contributed to the success of the production, foremost among which were the orchestra, stage crew, and Art Service Club. Special recognition went to Susan Battle for the magnificent set designs and to Jim, the student director.

"The Wizard of Oz" presented sophomores, juniors, and seniors with the problem of rehearsal, but they faced their responsibility with enthusiasm, as is demonstrated here at one of their many rehearsals.

"Oops! Wrong again!" said the Scarecrow (Darrell Wooton), and Dorothy (Sandy Meridith), as the Skeleton attempts to disrupt Dorothy's and the Scarecrow's journey to the Emerald City in Woodrow's spring production, "The Wizard of Oz."

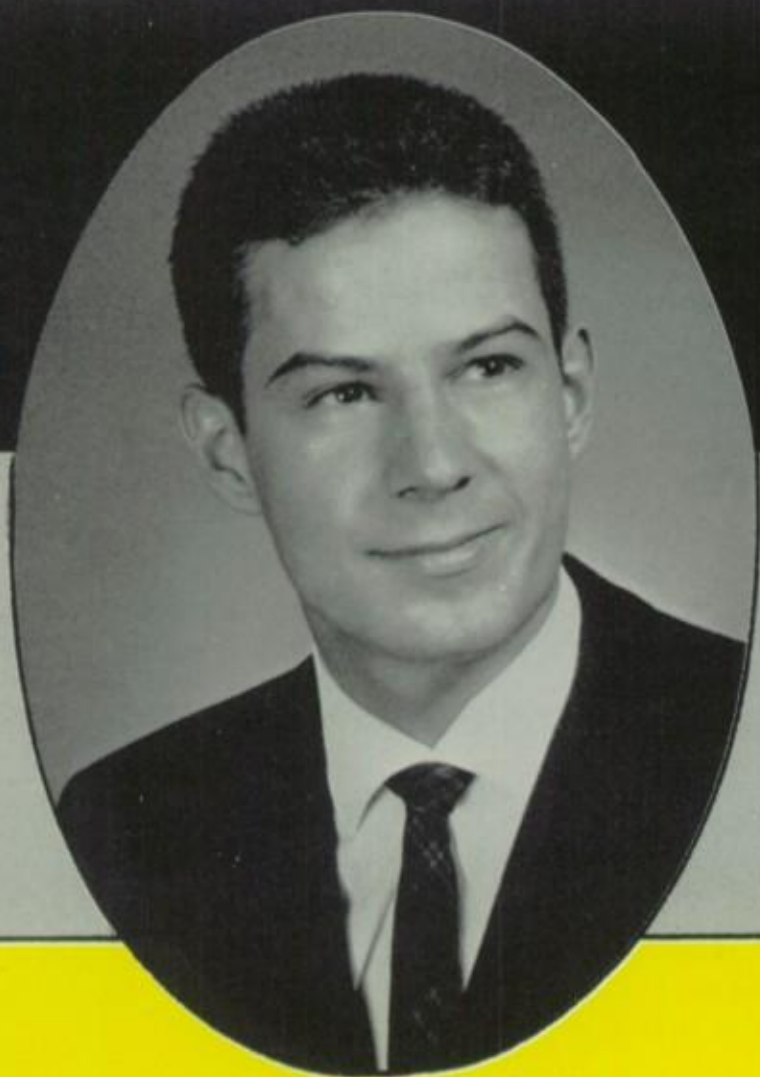

"WIZARD" HAS CAST OF MORE THAN ONE HUNDRED

The key to Munchkinland is presented to Dorothy (Sandy Meridith) by Mayor Shannon Harrison of Munchkinville as the Munchkins look on eagerly.

JURGEN PLUMPLUN
Germany

EXCHANGE STUDENT FROM GERMANY MAKES LASTING FRIENDSHIPS

Jurgen Pumplum, exchange student from Germany, reports that he has found the American people to be primarily "friendly, inviting, and kindly," an impression which Woodrow students can heartily echo about Jurgen.

He is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin T. Judy whose son Dwight is a senior at Woodrow. As a student at Woodrow, Jurgen has an average class schedule and participates in extracurricular activities such as the French Club and Historical Society. He is also a member of the National Honor Society and the orchestra, in which he plays the violin.

Jurgen's real family consists of seven other members. His father is a manufacturer and his mother is a housewife. He has three brothers, ages 23, 12, 5 and two sisters, ages 22 and 2.

School in Germany differs from American schools. Each student is required to have acceptably completed 42 subjects during nine years of high school. The students remain in one class for all subjects and, if possible, for all nine years. At the beginning and end of these years, thorough examinations are given. There are three different kinds of schools, or gymnasiums as they are called in Germany. They are the Old Language School, the Modern Language School, and the Science School.

The main German sports are soccer and handball instead of football and baseball which rank number one in the United States. The school athletics which are emphasized are tennis, hockey, riding, swimming, and gliding. Jurgen is chiefly interested in horseback riding and gliding. His other hobbies include handwork in metal, mosaic, and enamel.

Jurgen Pumplun seems to have added something to his wardrobe. Could it be his new boots from the Lone Star State of Texas? They seem to fit perfectly and Jurgen enjoys their comfort greatly.

Sibile Burmester smiles happily as the four drill team captains Johnnasue Melton, Sherrie Pardoe, Sharon Stone, and Anita Pou present a drill team jacket to her.

BRAZILIAN TEENAGER FAVORABLY IMPRESSED WITH NORTH AMERICAN WAYS AND PEOPLE

Sibile Burmester, exchange student from Sao Paulo, Brazil, is a friendly and heart-warming girl. Her Brazilian family consists of her parents and an older brother. Her father owns a steel foundry and factory of hydraulic jacks; her mother, a housewife. At home, Sibile attended the Colegio Visconde de Portoseguro where she took mathematics, biology, chemistry, physics, Portuguese, English, French, Spanish, German, history, geography, Mechanical drawing, and physical education. She attended school six days a week from 7:20 until 12:40 and two times a week she returned from 2:00 until 5:00 for laboratory. At her school, there is a swimming team, soccer, basketball, volleyball, and theatre groups.

Sibile's American home is the family of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Harvey, and their daughter, Annabel Harvey. At Woodrow, Sibile is a member of the Sweethearts, Historical Society, National Honor Society, Science-Fiction Club, Press Club, Quill and Scroll, Ice Skating Club, Little Theatre, Pan-American Club, and Student Council.

Sibile's impression of America and Americans holds the key to much of her friendly attitude. She is impressed by America's high standard of living, and the enormous number of cars. She was especially impressed by "frozen foods" and "bobby socks and loafers!"

Generally her impression of the American people is that of their being different in their customs, while having common ideals with all peoples of the world.

INGVAR ALM
Sweden

TEXAS WEATHER GREATEST ANNOYANCE OF SWEDISH BOY

Ingvar Alm is Woodrow's exchange student from Burjholm, Sweden. His father, a chief engineer in a steel foundry, heard that the Texas Rotary wanted some boys to go to high school for one year in the States. Ingvar applied for a year in Texas. In June, 1962, he received the news that he had been accepted. After nine days on the Atlantic, he arrived in New York where he caught a Greyhound Bus to Texas. He says, "It took fifty hours without sleep and with almost no food." Finally, Ingvar reached Dallas on August 31.

He has found a large number of differences in Texas and Sweden. At school in Sweden Ingvar took ten subjects including English, German, physics, religion, and mathematics. At Woodrow he takes only five subjects. The Swedish attend school six days a week from 7:45 until 3:05. In Sweden the students do not change classrooms; the teachers are the ones who change. Another difference in the schools is that there are more activities, clubs, and entertainment at Woodrow.

Ingvar says that in Sweden no one can get a driver's license until he is eighteen, while in Texas young people can get one at sixteen or even younger. Many Swedish students own cars.

The weather has bothered Ingvar more this year than it has the Texans. Used to the cold, snowy winter weather of Sweden, he claims that the Texas winter is too hot and rainy. The Texas summer would be unbearable to him, he fears.

In Sweden the main sports are soccer and bandy. There is an emphasis on out-door life and weapons. One important pastime is knife-throwing.

Ingvar Alm, sponsored by Rotary International, told of his trip to the United States and his first impressions of the American people.

WHAT IS THE AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE?

The American Field Service is a private non-profit, educational organization, whose purpose is the furthering of understanding to good will among the peoples of the world. It carries out this purpose by bringing teen-age students from abroad to study in American high schools to preparatory schools to live with American families and communities for a year. American Field Services also sends American teen-agers abroad to live with families and attend school for a term or a full year.

The American Field Service was founded in 1914 as a volunteer ambulance corps and served with the allied forces in both World War I and World War II. Its 4,000 volunteer workers carried over a million casualties. The American Field Service peace-time program of international exchange on the teen-age level was founded in 1947, the Summer Program in 1950, and the School Program in 1957. Two of Woodrow's students, Letty Wells who went to Chile, and Mary Lois LaRoe who went to Germany, treasure their stay in the two foreign countries above anything else that they have ever experienced.

During the American Field Service program, Miss Mattie Dell Webb, the school sponsor of the A.F.S., explained to the Wilsonites the requirements for being an exchange student to another country.

FACULTY AND ADMINISTRATION

OUTSTANDING OFFICIALS GOVERN DALLAS SCHOOLS

Educational ideals are high in Dallas. The well-trained teachers and principals are dedicated to the propagation of these ideals.

The people of Dallas are, and justly should be, proud of the modern facilities and the excellent achievements of their school system.

Dr. W. T. White, Superintendent of the Dallas Independent School District, and his excellent staff are responsible for the outstanding records of accomplishment achieved by this system.

Because of the immense task of planning and operating such a huge project, 162 persons are employed in the administration building at 3700 Ross Avenue. Every year there are more new schools completed and a substantial increase in the enrollment in Dallas.

At right, this modern building at 3700 Ross Avenue houses the administrative staff of the Dallas School System.

DR. WARREN TRAVIS WHITE
Superintendent of Schools

The high standards of the Dallas School System have been maintained by the very outstanding efforts of Dr. Warren T. White, Superintendent of Schools, and his capable cabinet of assistant superintendents. Seated: Dr. Ewell D. Walker, Personnel, and Dr. White; Standing: Mr. R. H. McKay, Administration, Mr. Dale Douglas, Business, Mr. Hollis Allen, Assistant to the Superintendent, Mr. Don Matthews, Special Services, Dr. Frank L. Williams, Curriculum.

C. C. SMITH, Principal

PRINCIPAL SMITH, EXPERT IN ADMINISTRATION, ANGLING, AMIABILITY

The Class of 1963 is the first graduating class to have been under Principal Smith's guidance. During the three years he has been at Woodrow Wilson all of the students have grown to love and admire his warm smiles and friendly ways. His efficiency and his talent for organization are easily discernible in the smoothly-running days at Woodrow. Teachers, as well as students, appreciate Mr. Smith's sincere interest and helpfulness in their problems. Principal Smith remarks that he enjoys his teacher and student relationships immensely.

Aside from the hours spent at Woodrow Wilson, Mr. Smith, with his wife, spends many pleasant evenings at football games (he is a former coach), musicals, and get-togethers with friends and neighbors. Both are devotees of fishing, but Mr. Smith admittedly far surpasses Mrs. Smith—and almost anyone else—in this particular sport.

An outstanding accomplishment of Mr. Smith this year and probably the cause of his greatest "head-ache"—was the ironing out of the wrinkles in the data processing program, more familiarly known as "IBM." Working long hours at nights and on non-school days, he and his staff have made Woodrow Wilson an outstanding example among schools in the city that have instituted this machine-age record system.

J. H. MALONE, Assistant Principal

The faculty and student body of Woodrow Wilson feel fortunate in having Mr. J. H. Malone as assistant principal. He has just completed his sixth year in this capacity. Mr. Malone has served at several levels of secondary education and holds degrees from North Texas State University and Southern Methodist University. Thus, his background of experience, education, and tenure provide perfect instruments of aid in performing his present duties.

Mr. Malone's work is involved and time-consuming. Practically every hour and minute is filled with helping student or teacher. He spends summer months enrolling students and scheduling classes. Once school begins, for him there are many more problems to face before days run smoothly.

Mr. Malone upholds standards of conduct and administers correction when necessary. The student body is again aided when the assistant principal inquires about and locates jobs for various members. One visiting Mr. Malone's office will always find him eager to be of service. The student body, faculty, and parents are grateful for the hard-working, capable assistant principal.

Mr. Malone's "girl Fridays" pose for the Crusader on the steps they scurry up and down every day. Proceeding upward they are: Judy May, Jan Farrow, Sharon Newsome, Gretchen Phillips, JoAnne McGhee, Karon McNeil, Rhonda McCord, Jackie Potter, Johnasue Melton, Sharon Sagely, and Rosa Orr. Not pictured: Phyllis Hopkins and Anna Massey.

These three smiling ladies, Mrs. Lorene Francis, Mrs. Martha Nelson, and Mrs. Willie Hill, run Woodrow's orderly and efficient front office.

ATTENDANCE OFFICE FUNCTIONS CAPABLY UNDER DEAN

One of the most important offices at Woodrow Wilson, and a decidedly indispensable one, is that of the dean, Mrs. Lorene Francis. This office is entirely responsible for recording the absences and the times tardy for each of the fifteen hundred pupils at Woodrow Wilson.

In addition to attendance records, the dean is responsible for enrolling all late students. She represents Woodrow as she meets the public, whether it be strangers, visitors, or parents with a problem.

Because the position of a dean carries so many responsibilities, it is necessary to have a well-qualified person. The minimum requirements are a degree from a university or college, a teacher's certificate, and a working knowledge of office procedure.

Mrs. Francis' seventeen years of maintaining an efficient office at Woodrow Wilson are a testimony to her excellent capabilities.

The office employs two very capable assistants to aid in running the office, Mrs. Willie Hill and Mrs. Martha Nelson. Thoughtful students give up their study halls to help in the dean's office, collecting attendance slips, delivering call slips, and helping check attendance.

The dean's office is always busy, but never so much so that its services are not available to students, graduates, and visitors.

Dean Francis's able assistants gather in her office. Standing behind the desk are Linda Anglin, Sandra Chrystal, Vicki Gershner, Georgeann Spencer, Nancy Garner, and Karen Evans. In front are Susan Vanderpool, Sharon Smith, Penny Pearson, Helen Ashmore, Lois Yarborough and Pat White.

Mrs. Helen Parsons, Mrs. Mozelle Newton, and Mrs. Vagia Newman find something funny about the graduating class' records.

CORRECT, UP-TO-DATE RECORDS ESSENTIAL IN CLINIC, COUNSELOR'S OFFICE, AND PRINCIPAL'S OFFICE

The principal's office is well supervised under the direction of Mrs. Martha Harrison and Mrs. Bernice Tarpley.

The counselors' office help pause before the bulletin board for which they are responsible. They are: Kay Williamson, Carolyn Melton, Barbara Bentley, Sharon Stone, Pat Rorex, Ann Peterson, Pat Kiblinger, Jane Penney, Nelda Read, and Candy Chazenow.

INCREASED DUTIES CALL FOR TWO SENIOR COUNSELORS

The office of the two senior counselors is visited by every senior at least once, usually twice. Through her guidance, credits and requirements for graduation of each student are checked. When they are met, she informs the student that he has finally reached the climax of twelve years of work: graduation. The two senior counselors, Mrs. Mozelle Newton and Miss Helen Parsons, are ably assisted by Mrs. Vagia Newman, who helps keep this ever-important office running smoothly and efficiently.

If there is anyone who knows more about a student than himself, it is probably the nurse, Mrs. Willie Mae Caldwell. She keeps an up-to-date record of every student at Woodrow Wilson.

Student helpers are prominent in each of these offices. Their duties vary from keeping accurate records, typing, and filing, to delivering call slips.

Two devoted Wildcat fans that the Woodrow student body may not be so familiar with are Principal Smith's secretary, Mrs. Bernice Tarpley, and her assistant, Mrs. Martha Harrison. Mrs. Tarpley answers all correspondence as directed by Mr. Smith and otherwise fulfills the duties of a school secretary. Mrs. Harrison's assignment, in addition to assisting with routine office duties, consists chiefly of receiving and depositing all money that is handled through the office.

DATA PROCESSING SPEEDS CLERICAL WORK

The New Age has really invaded Woodrow in the mysterious world of the IBM system. This "data processing" system, housed in room 117, is run by the efficient Mrs. Madeline Young and her helpers. The machines record attendance and tardiness, and, most helpful of all, record students' grades on report cards. As one of the first Dallas schools to have the IBM plan, Woodrow keeps its place at the head of the list in up-to-date equipment. Though these machines are extremely fast and accurate, they are not infallible, especially if the data fed to them are inaccurate. At the beginning of school some boys found to their surprise that they were scheduled in the girls' physical education classes! Although it does take time to get the system perfected, the Administration feels that in the future the IBM machine will undoubtedly prove its worth to Woodrow and will greatly lighten the burdensome bookkeeping chores of the teachers and office staff.

Mrs. Young explains the processing machine's operation to puzzled teachers Paul Allen, Jean Musick, and Alberta McMillan.

STUDENT HELPERS LIGHTEN WORK OF OFFICE PERSONNEL

During each school day many students give up study halls to help in the various school offices. Mr. J. W. Brown is aided in the large visual education office by competent students who keep equipment in order and schedule film showings. Mr. Don Helms uses several capable students to aid him in the business office. These girls use their knowledge of accounting and bookkeeping to keep the school's financial records in order. All of these students are eager for the chance to help keep the school routine running smoothly—and, incidentally—enjoy the freedom from study-hall discipline.

Mr. Helms' helpers in his business office are Janice Hale, Doris Freeman, Zulema Madruga, Rebecca McGilberry.

CITY ANTHOLOGY OF STUDENT WORK FEATURES WILSONITES

Senior English students Carol Swift, Deborah Dillard, Kay Brumage, and Julie Parkinson draw scenery around pictures of the characters in Canterbury Tales. The drawings were done by their teacher, Miss Corin Humphries.

From start to finish, the English student at Woodrow is involved in a busy subject. Refrains of a sophomore's memory work, "Friends, Romans, Countrymen;" a junior's scene from Our Town; or a senior's lines from Macbeth may be heard echoing from a classroom almost any day in the year. The hard-working 4B's also read The Canterbury Tales, which is in middle English and a near foreign language to most students. They also read Pilgrim's Progress and Ivanhoe. Along with The House of The Seven Gables, a series of short stories is read by the junior classes. The theme of their English year is that of American Literature, past and present. The sophomores' study is rather varied. Included is the novel Silas Marner and a great number of short stories. Learning to appreciate literature is the main objective in these classes.

The final months find a majority of Wildcats in the library. The up-to-date, complete Woodrow Wilson library makes this season's duty of a term theme easier. Points of grammar, spelling, punctuation, organization, and foot-noting are all employed in this assignment. English students are also encouraged in other creative writings, such as poetry. The National Poetry Anthology has included many Wilsonites' efforts.

The well-rounded English program at Woodrow not only gives the students, from sophomores to seniors, the opportunity to read great literature, but also a chance to try their hand at creativeness.

GRADUATES OF 1963 ARE FIRST TO BENEFIT FROM HONORS MATHEMATICS PROGRAM

This year for the first time the graduating class will have had the advantages of the advanced "honors math" program. This class starts with first year algebra in the eighth grade and advances up to calculus and analytical geometry in the twelfth grade. Students who take this senior year of advanced math may take advanced placement tests to receive a year of college credit. This honors program was initiated because of an increased emphasis in recent years placed on mathematics and science in the space age. All students begin these studies with algebra 1 and 2 in which they learn the basic fundamentals. During the next four years, they work up to calculus, in which they learn about limits, derivatives, and integrals.

These courses prepare students for higher college math. They also help the pupils learn to think clearly and logically and add an impressive amount of mathematical terms to their vocabulary.

Karen Tate seems to be wondering if she could remove the sign from Mrs. Blevins' classroom door, but Don McSpadden laughingly doubts it.

Explosions, formaldehyde, ripple tanks, "rotten-egg" smells, and worms are all familiar objects to Woodrow Wilson science students. Woodrow's three science departments—biology, chemistry, and physics—are continuing to train each student to meet the needs of this science-conscious age. Woodrow Wilson students are privileged to have access to the most modern scientific equipment. This year the chemistry laboratory was completely modernized with new tables and sinks and all new equipment, including a $600 electronic analytical balance. As a result, accelerated students may also take a second year of this science as part of a new advanced program to prepare college hopefuls.

Physics, "the science of matter and motion," has a new face this year. Mr. Don W. Thompson, new teacher to Woodrow, not only emphasizes learning science, but the ability to use it.

Mr. Don Thompson's physics students use their knowledge of measuring distances with a range finder in a practical problem at Randall Park. The students are Taylor Ashworth, Jimmy Ellis, Charles Montgomery, and George Bithos.

SKITS AND FILMS EFFECTIVE IN TEACHING LANGUAGES

A bit of international friendship and understanding is gained by French, Spanish, and Latin students, who learn not only about other languages, but also about other countries, and customs, and peoples.

Students of the "language of love and diplomacy" find aid from tapes, films, and maps of French; and the students themselves invent many visual aids to make learning French verbs and grammar much easier and also more fun.

Spanish students learn about their Spanish-speaking "amigos" in the rest of the Americas by celebrating many of the Spanish holidays with reports, pictures and songs. They also observe Pan American Week in the spring. Only Spanish is spoken in class after the first year, and for once, students can really learn by speaking aloud. As someone has said, "Practice makes perfect," but this is true only if the practice is perfect.

The ancient history of the Roman Empire is explored by Woodrow's Latin students; and its culture also is studied. Every spring the Latin Department holds a festive "Circus Maximus" in which all Latin students participate. During this circus, the first and second year Latin students are sold as slaves to the more advanced students.

The language departments at Woodrow not only help students fill the language requirements for graduation and college, but they also help teach students tolerance and understanding for other peoples.

REQUIRED COURSES SWELL HISTORY ENROLLMENT

Ronald Hatzenbuehler impishly tells civic students Monty Straus, Melinda Deason and Julie Parkinson, all about United States Territories (as he points to Japan and grins).

The Social Science department at Woodrow is one of the fastest growing departments in the building. Three years' study covers histories of the world, America, the United States government, Texas, the Latin American countries, and the economic system of the United States. Some of these, as history of England and Texas, are elective courses; however, they have become increasingly more popular during the years and vacant chairs are difficult to find. Sophomores are enrolled in the required two-semester course of world history, a detailed area is covered in the required junior year of American history. Social sciences for our seniors is provided through civics, a one-semester course of government. If desired, the seniors have several choices of history to complete the year.

Maps, charts, films, and slides all add to the variety of the history classroom. Each class usually spends a large amount of time in the film room, and the teachers appreciate the new and interesting aids for teaching their subject.

GOVERNMENT CLASSES STUDY COMMUNISM

A new emphasis has been given to the American History and Civics courses. An average of four to six weeks is now being spent on the study of communism. Its history, motives, and characteristics are thoroughly looked into.

Our American democracy is also examined in comparison with communism. The majority of comments have been favorable on the teaching of this topic. The history department at Woodrow has been successful in informing students of yesterday's history and preparing them to take their part in tomorrow's government.

COOKING, SEWING, AND MECHANICAL DRAWING

DEMAND EXACT MEASUREMENT

The homemaking and commercial departments of Woodrow offer great opportunities for students to gain valuable training for their future careers. These elective school courses also aid the student in his other school work and every day life.

One-semester courses in foods and sewing train girls to be more efficient homemakers. In foods they learn to prepare meals that are nutritious and appetizing, yet inexpensive.

In the sewing classes color, line, and textures are considered by each seamstress before starting construction on any garment. Both departments have been remodeled and refurnished within the last two years; this helps greatly to keep the courses up-to-date.

Commercial courses in mechanical drawing, shorthand, and typing enable students to develop skills that will be helpful in getting a really good job after high school graduation. Precise architectural drawing, blueprint making and reading, and practical construction are the main learning activities in mechanical drawing. Shorthand classes are especially popular among the girls, but a lot of determination and hard work is necessary for a student to be graded "excellent" in this course. Enrollment is usually at a maximum in typing classes where correct forms for letters and themes are taught.

For those students that have part-time jobs, a Distributive Education program is offered. D. E. pupils usually carry only three subjects. After third period they are free to leave school for their jobs.

Carol Clark and Judy Congleton fiendishly stir their witch's brew, more commonly known as a milk dessert. This lab is part of the classes' study on the most nearly perfect food—milk.

STUDENT MUSICIANS COOPERATE IN SCHOOL PRODUCTIONS

The music department at Woodrow is made up of many hard-working students and teachers who spent many hours practicing and "perfecting." The band, under the direction of substitute band leader, Mr. Bill Wartes, acting in the absence of Director George Royster, out on account of illness, spent long sleepy hours before school in the fall practicing for half-time shows, for the football games, pep assemblies, and the Big D show at Memorial Auditorium. The band also performs on some of the programs put on by Woodrow students during the school year. The Concert Choir is an organization which brings much pleasure to its Woodrow audiences. This choir, directed by Mr. Charles Williams, has about 100 members this year. This select group presented assemblies in the fall and spring and the combined choirs, or members individually, participated in nearly all of the assemblies and special programs, including "Far Away Places" in December, the Christmas and Easter Assemblies, and the musical, "The Wizard of Oz." A new group, the Girls Chorus, was organized this year. Also under the direction of Mr. Williams, it has 30 members. This group, which first appeared in the Fall Round-Up, provides music on many occasions. Woodrow has been proud of its especially fine orchestra this year. Under the direction of Mrs. Evelyn Robbins, it has about 40 members. The orchestra gave programs throughout the year, and was a vital part of the musical productions this year.

ART AND SPEECH DEPARTMENTS CO-SPONSOR MUSICALS AND FALL ROUND-UP

The art and speech departments at Woodrow offer more than adequate facilities for students interested in creative work. Students interested in a career in art find four courses of various arts open to them. Drawing, painting, and varied techniques of brush are available to beginning art students. Advanced craft projects, such as ceramics, metal, wood, plaster, jewelry, mosaic, and fused glass are available for advanced art students. In May, a representation of the best student work is displayed at the Student Crafts Fair. Art students perform various duties to help with school activities, such as football and Round-Up posters, and decorations for dances and banquets. The speech department offers to students a chance to improve their skill and knowledge in the art of speaking. Speech pupils build up their ability by doing skits, pantomimes, story-telling, and assorted speaking activities. The speech classes also produce the amusing and interesting skits for the pep assemblies during football season. Woodrow's many plays, and the yearly musical production are largely composed of speech class members. These students, by actually performing, gain confidence and poise, valuable assets in an acting career. Posture, imagination, and the art of being at ease are emphasized. In addition to the credit received for speech, the students get a delightful combination of both skill and happy times.

PRESIDENT'S NEW PHYSICAL FITNESS PROGRAM CARRIED OUT IN GYM CLASSES

Students who park their car in either the "decal" or "pay" school parking lots are familiar with the parking lot attendant, Mr. Herschel Mattison (left). Mr. Mattison is assisted by teaching personnel Mr. Kenneth Hale, Mr. J. William Brown, and Mr. Charles Abbott.

STUDY HALLS, PARKING LOT: ESSENTIALS OF WILDCATS

Physical education is a much-loved class for all Wildcats. Physical fitness tests . . . taking gym suits home to be laundered . . . learning baseball and basketball are included in the P.E. classes. Graduates are required to have had four years of high school physical education, unless they have been excused for Drill Team, R.O.T.C., or physical reasons. Separate gyms are provided for boys and girls, but one finds most of the activity outside.

Driving theory is taken in physical education during the first twelve weeks of the sophomore year and is required for graduation. Those eager for their driver's license can take the behind-the-wheel driving course upon the completion of driving theory.

Some Woodrow students would be in quite a predicament without the study halls for study before tests and for finishing up that last bit of homework.

The Military Department of Woodrow Wilson includes 211 boys in four companies and the band. One-half credit per year is given toward graduation for boys taking military.

SURPRISING NUMBER OF NON-TEACHING PERSONNEL FUNCTIONING AND

Dolores Allen pauses her work for the Crusader photographer. Cleaning Mr. Malone's office is only one of the many duties that bring her to Woodrow over an hour before school starts each morning.

A shrill ring, followed quickly by a sudden stamping of feet, falling books, a whirlwind of motion in the halls, and it is "A" period for lunch. Students and teachers on the first floor rush in waves up the stairs and into the lunchroom.

Amid confusion, however, the lunchroom staff calmly and efficiently serves the hungry crowd. They retain this composure when the scene is repeated at B and C lunch periods.

What with serving everything from ice cream to a plate lunch to 1,500 people at Woodrow, it is easy to understand how these ladies have half a day's work completed by the time the students reach school.

School dietitian, Mrs. Ila Mae Cavazos, plans all meals for every day of the nine-months school session. It is understandable that this position requires a person of exceptional abilities, which include the sometimes rare facility of getting along with both her staff and the students.

Head custodian, C. C. Jackson and his corps of workers are responsible for Woodrow's well-kept, neat appearance throughout all buildings. By their thorough care the main plant remains attractive despite being more than thirty years old. They work in two shifts—the night shift remaining at the school as late as 11:00 P.M.

Councilman Jurgen Pumplum introduces a consultant at the Career Conference Assembly.

"And the work never ended . . ." Such is the motto of a Student Council Representative. A Representative works diligently throughout the school year to serve in the place of his classmates at the Council meetings. A member's duties range from announcing Career Conference speakers to decorating for the Homecoming Dance. To be on the Student Council, a Wilsonite must maintain a "C" average.

Meetings are held at least once a month, presided over by Steve Brin, president, and Robert Cleveland, vice-president. Various topics are discussed for the sole purpose of improving the welfare of the Woodrow Wilson Student Body. Each homeroom elects a Representative and an Alternate for the fall and the spring semester. Representatives serve as direct means of communication between the administration and the students. Because council members are chosen on the basis of dependability and levelheadedness, they are listened to with confidence. Sponsored by Miss Mattie Dell Webb, the Student Council remains constantly active so that the stress on student-faculty co-operation may continue.

PROJECTIONISTS VOLUNTEER FREE HOURS TO SERVE SCHOOL AND STUDENTS

What is a better way to spend those long, dull study hall periods than enjoying an interesting movie! This is the enviable task of the members of the Projectionist Club of Woodrow Wilson High School. Ably directed by Mr. J. William Brown, the projectionists show films of an educational nature in subjects ranging from Spanish to chemistry. The knowledge and training received in operating the projectors enable the members to cope with any problem, whether it be a broken film or sound difficulties.

Any student may join the Projectionists Club and take advantage of the opportunity to learn as well as to serve the school. For, by relinquishing study hall time for the operating of the movie projector, each member provides a lasting service in the educational development of the student body.

Peggy Chambers, secretary; Miss Brigham and Miss Stovall, sponsors, and David Welsh, president, seem thoroughly engrossed as they review books which the Red Cross plans to send overseas and to hospitals here.

"Plink, plink, plink," was the easily recognizable sound coming from Room 214 as volunteers of the High School Red Cross counted the coins collected by the homerooms. Part of the money was used to pay Woodrow's dues at the downtown office. These dues were used to sponsor programs such as the one for the American Field Service students. All A.F.S. students in Dallas were privileged to make a 3-minute record to send to their families back home or to their adopted families abroad.

Local organizations sponsored a birthday party at Woodlawn Convalescent Home and filled three Red Cross chests to be used in disaster areas at home and abroad. The volunteers were responsible for passing out United Fund posters in local shopping centers, decorating one hundred Christmas stockings for hospitals, baking cookies for the Veterans Administration Hospital, and collecting paperback books for hospital patients and boys overseas.

There are no dues or specific requirements for organization members. Their service is voluntary, as it is in the National Red Cross.

HIGH SCHOOL RED CROSS INCREASES MEMBERSHIP

Mrs. Blevins' homeroom was one of the top three contributors to the High School Red Cross drive held in the fall.

Miss Evans' homeroom was one of the three top money contributors to Red Cross this year.

Red Cross officers David Welsh, Beverly Benthul, and Peggy Chambers count contributions for the Overseas Program.

TOP STUDENTS COMPOSE LIBRARY COUNCIL

The Library Council is a very helpful and spirited group of students. All members must have a B average and be recommended by one English teacher. The members are responsible for picking up Library permits, typing catalogue cards, and writing overdue book slips. During Open House last November each period made a book display. After visitors voted on their favorite display, the second period library council won with their Japanese display.

Clyde Johnson, chairman of the Library Council, confers with the senior members at an 8:00 meeting. The "mighty" seniors are Terye Bock, Beverly Morris, Paula Upchurch, Clyde Johnson, Doris Freeman, Anita Pou. Librarian Mary Ann Dodd stands by to give her aid as sponsor of the club.

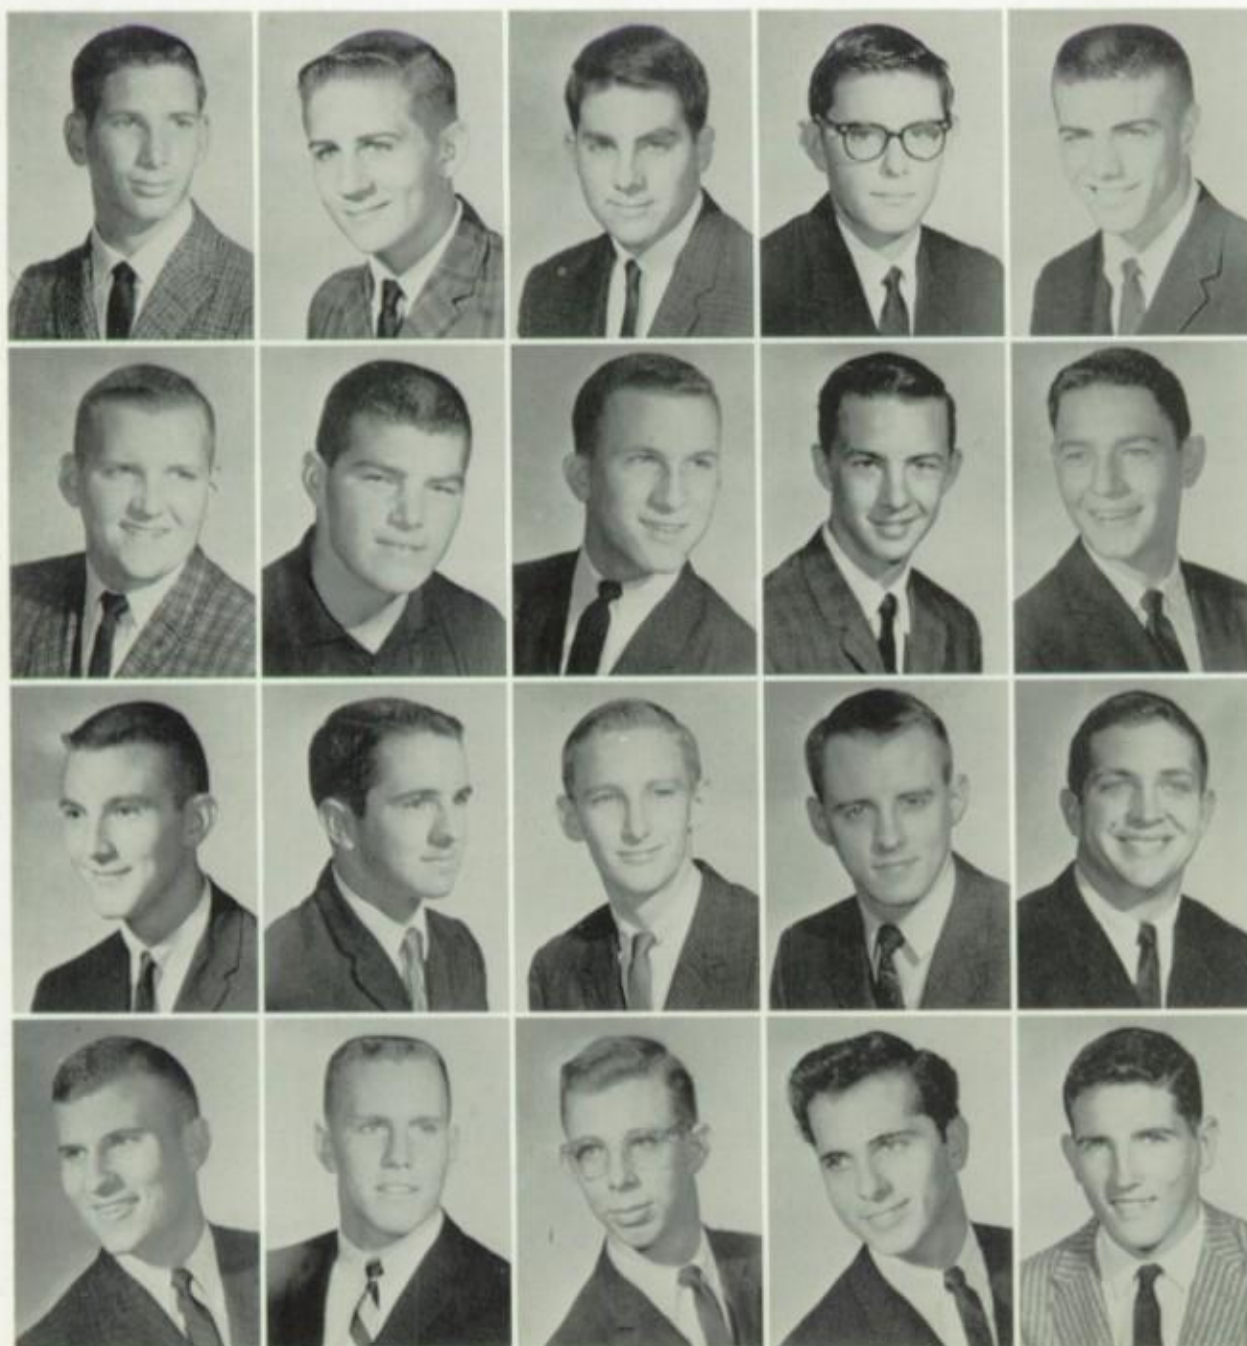

When one says Key Club, an image comes into every Wildcat's mind. The image of young men with ambition, fiery spirit, and willingness to help their school. The Key Club has shown their ambition through such projects as painting the parking lot and giving Christmas and Thanksgiving baskets to the needy. They've shown fiery spirit by sponsoring the Mystery Wildcat contest during football season in which they awarded free football tickets to the winner. Their willingness to serve their school has been their strongest characteristic and was proved by decorating a Christmas tree for the hall and working in the parking lot the morning of Career Conference.

The Key Club, sponsored by Mr. Dale McNeill and the Kiwanis Club, meets at 8:00 every first and third Tuesday mornings in Hall 2. In May, the Key Club ends a hardworking year with their Leadership Banquet at which the reins are turned over to the new officers.

Prominent seniors Tommy Greer and Ronald Hatzenbuehler and junior Martin Hearne preside as Key Club officers. Tommy is Vice-President, Ronald is Secretary-Treasurer, and Martin is the President.

"Germany is just great!" seems to be what Mary Lois LaRoe is declaring as she speaks to the members of the Key Club at one of their regular meetings. Students as well as teachers speak to this active organization.

During Latin Week, one of the main highlights is the Slave Sale in which students are "sold" to their masters whom they serve all week until the last day of Latin Week. Then the tables are turned, and the masters become the slaves. Displaying posters announcing Latin Week are Karen Smith, Sarah Brooks, Kathy Hamilton, Jane Penney, Sharon Suter, and Betty Endicott.

Chapter I of Cursus Honorum celebrated Latin week like this, dressed in authentic Roman togas. Back Row: Patsy Handley, Diane Allen, Sharron Richeson, Patty Bowers, Patsy McAdams, Sharron Newsome, Marsha Rowland, Judy Collins, and Bruce Ross. On the couch is Susan Gully, seated is Roger Hillman and Martha Sorrels, and kneeling is Joe Jackson.

"VENI, VIDI, VICI," FAMILIAR TO ALL LATIN STUDENTS

On display throughout Latin Week were such projects as these replicas of ancient Roman ruins as pointed out by Judy Burden, Frances Sacrey, Jane Pentecost, Anna Massey, and student teacher, Miss Julia Jackson, and Miss Katherine Norman.

Graduating seniors of last year presented "Jezebel's Daughter," complete with togas and Roman sandals. Shown here are Donna Locke, Lou Fouts, and Ralph Hamm.

HIGHLIGHT OF LATIN WEEK IS FAMOUS SLAVE SALE

Proving that Latin lives today in the Cursus Honorum or Latin Club of Woodrow Wilson is not all work. The club, sponsored by Miss Katherine Norman, keeps old Rome alive in the annual Slave Sale, held in March, and such socials, built on Ancient themes, as the Latin Banquet, held in May.

The club is made up of all third and fourth year Latin students. It is divided into two chapters: the Vergilians, or fourth year students, and the Ciceronians, or third year students. The Vergilians are reading Vergil's Aeneid, and the Ciceronians spend their time in the study of the orations and letters of Marcus Tullius Cicero and some selections from Ovid. Each chapter elects its own officers who, this year are (Vergilians): Martha Sorrells, Consul, Susan Gulley, Questor, Dianne Allen, Praetor, and Patty Bowers, Scriba; (Ciceronians): Consul, Kathy Hamilton, Praetor, Karen Smith, Incestor, Celia Sanford, Scriba, Sarah Brooks.

Diane Allen "toasts" Bruce Ross during a special meeting of Chapter I of Cursus Honorum in which all members dressed in Roman togas. These students are anxiously looking forward to more club activities which will include the Circus Maximus and banquet in the spring.

PAN AMERICAN STUDENT FORUM PROMOTES WORTHY PROJECTS

"Buenas tardes!" and "¿Cómo te va?" are heard along with many other Spanish phrases on the first and third Wednesday of each month when the Woodrow Wilson Pan American Student Forum is called to order in Hall 2. The Spanish students who make up this club attempt to promote better relations among all Americans by learning their language, customs, history, art, and music. In this way they develop a real appreciation and respect for the contributions of Spanish culture to our own.

In the fall the club heard some of the members tell of their trips to Mexico to study Spanish during the summer. At another meeting Letty Wells showed slides and told of her stay in Chile. As Christmas approached the club members planned and executed a Christmas party for some Latin American children at a Dallas Mexican Mission; everyone had a wonderful time at this party. Later the club had its own Christmas party, complete with a program, a piñata, and lots of food!

During the second semester many other interesting programs were presented including one by our Brazilian exchange student Sibile Burmester in which she showed slides of her native country. The highlight of the club's activities was the statewide spring convention held this year in San Antonio. This convention is always well attended by enthusiastic club members, who learn much—besides having a great deal of fun.

The group that took a piñata to one of the Spanish missions consisted of Dell Perry, Peggy Lanius, Barbara Bailey, Susie Scott, Terri Lynch, Rosie de Leon, Robert Harris, Susan Vanderpool, Terry Tully, Maggie Cox, Sally Coffey, James Filyaw, Vic Lyday, Wanda Trammel, and Jo Ann Peacock.

David Welsh and Elaine Reid are taking time to explain a French menu to a group of French Club members, Linda Hayes, Sharon Daughtry, Marilee Cox, Diane Warfield, Claudia Colburn, and Lourdes Bugarin.

FRENCH CLUB MIXES HORS D'OEUVRES AND CULTURE

The French Club, better known as "Entre Nous," this year endeavored to teach the members about the French people, their language and their customs through the use of programs on French architecture, aristocrats, cities, operas, and the like. The annual Christmas program included expositions about the French midnight Mass and the "Yule Log," along with other Christmas customs. Of course, it is not always work and culture in French Club, there is some play; for example, one morning slides of the beautiful countryside of France were shown with narration by

Mrs. Young, the IBM operator at Woodrow, who is also a native of Paris, France. Therefore, whether it is 8 o'clock on a dreary Tuesday morning or 3:45 on a lazy Tuesday afternoon the French Club members manage to combine work, fun, and fellowship into the unusual meetings of "Entre Nous." Then, one and all go home with visions of "petit fours" (little iced cakes), and French onion dip in their head and a satisfied feeling in their stomach from the savory refreshments of the French Club.

Cathy Inness recounts her experiences in Belgium to club members Rosetta Jones, Joe McFarland, Gayle Sapp, Jurgen Pumplun, Alice Robbins, Donna Abbott, Linda Taylor, and Ruth Gardner during an afternoon meeting.

ARTISTS PROVIDE SCENERY FOR BIG STAGE PROGRAMS

Although small in number, the Art Service Club fills the various scenery, property, and decorative needs at Woodrow in a near-professional manner. This task is quite large and the Art Club always goes above and beyond the call of duty to fulfill teachers' and students' wishes. Activities begin early in the school year with football and Fall Round-Up posters. Decorations for the Sadie Hawkins dance and other school parties are also provided by the Art Club. Although the fall Revue, "Far Away Places," required only a small amount of scenery, the club inherited still another piece of work. After decorations for the football banquet were planned, the first semester activities were brought to a close.

Preparing scenery and props for the spring musical, "The Wizard of Oz," was the club's biggest project of the year. This major production required exaggerated, colorful, and stylized scenery. Many afternoons and evenings were spent in making last minute changes and filling final needs. Without the efforts of the Art Service Club, the programs and musicals presented at Woodrow would be quite incomplete.

Discussing a piece of scenery for the musical "The Wizard of Oz," are David Smith, Lynn Beitman, and Carol Swift.

PRESS CLUB AIDS IN NEWSPAPER PUBLICATION

Mixed emotions of both relief and expectation are in the air at the bi-weekly meetings of the Press Club; for not only is the work of writing for the Woodrow Wilson over for a while, but also the newspapers are to be distributed that very day, since the Press Club enables students to participate in the writing of the school paper, the members become acquainted with many phases of journalism, including photography and the mechanics of the print shop.

Capably led by President Margaret Tinsley, the editor of the News, and by Mr. Albert Johnston, sponsor, the Press Club provides many activities for its members. Each December the members journey to Denton for the Texas High School Press Association. Many interesting and informative programs are presented by both college news editors and members of professional newspaper staffs. In these and many other ways, the Press Club fulfills its aim to encourage student participation in the field of journalism.

Press Club officers are Margaret Tinsley, president; Beverly Benthul, vice-president; Maggie Cox, secretary.

Although Future Nurses is Woodrow's smallest club it is one of the most active. Its members are Susan Manning, Susan Scott, Deanna McGill, Lanelle Oden, Peggy Lanius, Terye Bock, and Sharon Suter.

MEDICAL PROFESSION ATTRACTS MEMBERS TO FUTURE NURSES

Future Nurses' officers: Susan Manning, president; Peggy Lanius, secretary; Mrs. Willie Mae Caldwell, sponsor; Deanna McGill, vice president and treasurer Susan Scott obtain new ideas as they read booklets on various professions in nursing.

Enthusiasm!! That's what has kept the Future Nurses Club bubbling and busy since their first meeting in September. Sponsored by Mrs. Willie Mae Caldwell this club which meets every second and fourth Tuesday in room 112 has had many worthwhile meetings and excursions. At the first of school three nurses from Baylor Hospital's administration talked to Future Nurses about the varied nursing professions. Later at another meeting a physical therapist from the Scottish Rite Hospital provided excellent information concerning the work and qualifications of a physical therapist. One Tuesday afternoon found the members on an excursion to Wadley Blood Center. Here the girls were taken on a first class tour where they saw research laboratories and storages for blood plasma. They also learned how a donor gives blood. The girls still talk about this interesting trip, for they were very impressed by what they saw and learned there.

The Future Nurses were represented at their annual convention in San Antonio, Texas. Many of these girls are planning a career in medicine after attending Future Nurses.

During Education Week these enthusiastic members of Future Teachers, Betina Howard, Terye Bock, and Carmyn McKinney discussed teaching as a career while they glanced over education pamphlets.

At left, sponsor, Mrs. Hoyle says, "Personally, I recommend North Texas," as officers Dee Anna Parker, vice president; Carmyn McKinney, president; Dee Autrey, secretary; and Terye Bock, treasurer, look over college bulletins which are on file in Mrs. Hoyle's room.

FUTURE TEACHERS LEARN THE JOYS AND TRIALS OF TRAINING YOUNG AMERICANS

Teachers get three months vacation, apples every day and plenty of attention from "politicking" students, but in return they must give their understanding, time, and patience. The members of the Future Teachers' Club which meets every 2nd and 4th Tuesday after school are learning that teaching takes a little more effort and talent than sitting behind a desk with an education diploma in your hand.

Under the leadership of sponsor, Mrs. Sue Hoyle, and president, Carmyn McKinney, the club has had many interesting meetings. During the fall Miss Spain, Miss Eckelman's student teacher, spoke to the club about a teacher's qualifications which include everything from college courses to plenty of understanding. The Future Teachers' Club also has an entire file of college bulletins for its members' use.

This club is indeed carrying out its aim to interest young men and women in teaching as a career.

EXCHANGE STUDENTS MEMBERS OF HISTORY CLUB

Exchange students: Jurgen Pumplum from Germany, Sibile Burmester from Brazil, Ingvar Alm from Sweden, discuss their respective countries as they point them out on the map.

By examining the problems and the joys of other people, the members of the History Club are learning how to face their own trials. Indeed these members receive first hand information on the history, geography, education, and social life of other countries.

Senior Letty Wells, exchange student to Concepcion, Chile in 1962, gave a talk and showed color slides taken in Chile. Her slides included pictures of burros walking to market and pictures of her classmates in their school uniforms.

Sibile Burmester, Woodrow's exchange student from Brazil, also showed color slides to the History Club. As she showed the slides she explained her pictures which included slides of carnivals, Sao Paula, her home, and Brazilia, Brazil's new modern capital.

With the wonderful talks and films of exchange students and travelers the members of the History Club are learning about many interesting people and places.

The Woodrow Wilson Historical Society which is sponsored by Mr. Doyle Smith meets every second Thursday in Hall 2 from 3:45 to 4:15. This club is one of the largest in Woodrow.

As each of these History Club officers arrived at 8:00 one morning to discuss the club's next program, each conveyed a glimpse into their personality. They are Ronald Hatzenbuehler, president, grinning sneakily; Letty Wells, treasurer, looking like the typical overworked student; Beverly Benthul, secretary, smiling as usual; and Margaret Tinsley, vice-president, blowing a "Tinsley" special.

Miniature rocket ships to vortex tubes, fill the minds of Science Club members on certain Thursday afternoons. Educational films which cover a wide field are shown this year to interested members. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Don Thompson, the group hopes to enter a large number of projects in the Science Fair. The club aims to promote the interest and study of science at Woodrow. LITTLE THEATER PUTS STUDENTS' DRAMA IN SPOTLIGHT

The future thespians have had a good taste of stage life this year at Woodrow. Shortly after Little Theater try-outs in the fall, Round-Up was presented. The variety show acts were connected by a "Six Flags Over Texas" theme. The intrigue and atmosphere of foreign countries was portrayed in the Fall Review, "Far Away Places." Many hours of the club and dance corps members' time were required to make these shows the "best." The unceasing efforts of teachers Mrs. Hoyle, Mr. Williams and Miss Eckleman, sponsor, are the very backbone of all the club's activities. The musical this year was the fantasy, "The Wizard of Oz." With elaborate costuming, sets, and make-up, a professional-like show was presented. The production staff, orchestra, concert choir and stage crew exerted all their abilities to make the final show a hit. Sellout crowds for both nights prove the popularity and importance of the Little Theater.

The Little Theater officers are Beverly Benthul, Joan McCulloch, Mike Wilkins, Jackie Rieves, and Sandy Meredith.

LITTLE THEATER MEMBERS PARTICIPATE IN FALL ROUND-UP

This scene from the Fall Round-Up is the wild production number done by a group of Woodrow's more prominent singers. Their enthusiastic acceptance was evident in the many encores the audience demanded.

"If I only had the nerve," laments the cowardly lion (Danny Neill), as Dorothy (Sandy Meridith) the Scarecrow (Jimmy Cannon) and the Tin Man (Lucky Russell) look on in this scene from the Fine Arts Department production of "The Wizard of Oz."

ICE SKATERS HAVE LIGHT-HEARTED FUN

Wildcats who seek physical enjoyment in "Big D" most likely are members of the Woodrow Wilson Ice Skating Club. This popular club is one of Woodrow's largest and is sponsored by gym teacher Betsy Clifford.

Club membership is open to all Wildcats interested in good, clean fun. The organization meets at Dallas Ice Arena at Fair Park.

"Maybe the kids aren't the most professional skaters in the world, but they sure do enjoy themselves," laughs sponsor, Betsy Clifford.

Kathy Rice and Patricia Patterson try a double spin on ice but —oops!

The Junior Citizens Traffic Commission, sponsored by Miss Willadean Bless, is one of the most active and worthwhile clubs at Woodrow Wilson. Its aim, which is to promote better traffic safety for the students of Woodrow Wilson, has been carried out from the Traffic Safety Campaign Week to the last meeting of the school year at the school administration building on May 15.

The Junior Citizens Traffic Commission began studying about traffic regulations, tickets, and accident preventions in November at the "Youth for Traffic Safety Conference" at S.M.U. As a part of Traffic Safety Campaign Week in October, the members presented an assembly on October 12 under the direction of chairman Tommy Scott. Various Saturdays during the year are spent at Traffic Court, where the members are allowed to observe violation trials.

Officers Betty Endicott, Tommy Scott, Tommy Greer, and Kay Williamson discuss one of the posters, which was to be displayed in the foyer of the building, with their sponsor Miss Bless.

JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT MAKES LASTING FRIENDSHIPS

The small business world of Junior Achievement acquaints high school students with the free enterprise system and gives them practical knowledge of how a business works. Members of J. A. actually form their own companies, which sell stock, make and sell a product and give salaries. The J.A. year was not "all-work-and-no-play," though. There was the "Get Acquainted" dance, the regular conference at the Statler Hilton, the benefit premiere of "How The West Was Won," the Coronation Ball at which Miss J.A. of 1963 was crowned, and the Future Unlimited banquet. Indeed J.A. members had a busy, yet profitable year as young businessmen.

J. A. keeps Kay Kelsay busy keeping records and making out invoices. Kay admits that being vice-president of J.A. is a busy job, but also fun, in meeting new people and discussing activities with advisor Jim Miller.

Jean Moffitt glows proudly as she shows one of her advisors, Mr. Woelful, a baby bib she has finished making. Jean's industrious Junior Achievement Co. make four products: baby bibs, engraved match books, napkins, and marble key chains.

Y-TEENS ACTIVE ALL YEAR IN SCHOOL, COMMUNITY

Senior girls predominate in Y-Teen offices. Shown here are Zulema Madruga, Secretary-Treasurer, Jerry Fowler, President, Peggy Chambers, Vice-President, and seated, Beverly Benthul, Devotion Chairman, and Sue Mark, Intra-Council Delegate.

What could be more enjoyable than a club's kick-off being held at Kip's for breakfast? The Y-Teens at Woodrow do just this when they form their club early in the fall. Under the sponsorship of Miss Doris Kemp, some fifty-one girls meet on Thursday morning to discuss plans for their always-continuous projects. The annual Y-Teen Valentine Dance is held during February at the Y.W.C.A.; each high school is represented by a nominee for Queen. Woodrow's representative this year was Beverly Benthul. A model from The Patricia Stevens School of Modeling spoke twice to the Y-Teens concerning modeling as a career and the growing influence of Y-Teens on young women.

The Sweethearts are proud of their own new uniforms and seem pleased to show them.

SWEETHEARTS MUST BE PUNCTUAL, PROFICIENT PERFECTIONISTS

Why are Sweethearts always so glad to see weekends come during football season? There are two main reasons: weekends mean a W.W. football game and two days without practice. There is much more to a Sweethearts' half-time show than meets the eye; chalk up practicing five times a week during the spring semester, three weeks of daily practice before school begins in the fall, and practice twice daily during football season. Not only sore muscles and drooping hair but also weekly precision performances result. Prospective members try out before Christmas for the coming school year. They are judged on the basis of poise, appearance, rhythm, personality, marching ability, and aptness in learning a routine. Junior members may try out for captain, being judged on ability to give commands in marching, originality in making up a routine, ability to teach part of a routine, grace, rhythm, appearance, and poise.

The band and Sweethearts casually await lining up before the T.J.-Woodrow game at the Cotton Bowl on High School Day.

COLORFUL BAND BOOSTS GRID GAME SPIRIT

Should a Woodrow Wilson Wildcat come to Woodrow early some morning during late summer, he would find not only the Sweethearts but also the Wildcat Band working feverishly to prepare the up-coming halftime shows during football season. Few realize the work that each band member puts in per day toward the perfection of his part in the show. There are practices every day during football season, before school and at third period, plus opportunities to rehearse during band study hall. All hard work is rewarded, however, when the members are cheered as they leave the field playing the fight song amidst applause and cheers.

The Wildcat Band is the backbone of the fall pep assemblies, as it accompanies the cheerleaders, majorettes, and Sweetheart captains with spirited, rousing numbers. Under the supervision of Mr. Bill Wartes, in the absence of Colonel George Royster last fall, the band also presented concert music after the football season. An outstanding assembly was presented near the end of the first semester featuring top soloists. The Big D Band and Drill Team Show at Memorial Auditorium, presented just before Thanksgiving, gave the band and Sweethearts a challenging chance to try to out-do every other band and drill team in the city, and to win the coveted first place trophy.

As the seniors through the years hum their old school fight song and Alma Mater, they can not help recalling the excellent Wildcat Band and the emotions it stirred.

SIX MAJORETTES ADD SPARKLE TO WILDCAT BAND AND HALF-TIME SHOWS

NANCY STOREY

The six talented majorettes are a vital part of the Wildcat Band, providing entertaining variety and attractiveness. Their envied positions are earned on the basis of twirling skill, marching ability and co-operativeness in working with the band and Sweethearts at irregular times. Summer months, sleeping time in the mornings, and noon-day hours are spent in practicing and perfecting half-time shows and routines for school pep assemblies. The 1962-63 uniforms were white satin with glittering sequin trim, complemented with sequined top hats.

The 1962-63 majorettes attended S.M.U. twirling school during the summer, where they learned new routines and steps for the main events of their year. When not involved with football season, a majority of the majorettes play instruments in the band; thus, they are kept busy all year. The 1962-63 majorettes are Nancy Storey, Pat Chandler, Cindy Bennett, Lynn McLarty, Jan Wood, and Laurie Meyers, head majorette.

ORCHESTRA PROVIDES ENTERTAINMENT THE YEAR AROUND

What is a "Stringorama?" To the uninitiated, it may sound like a mass of threads and strings masterfully dangled in a display of artistic expression, however, to the members of the Orchestra, the Stringorama is merely one of several special events designed to develop and display the many abilities of Woodrow Wilson's musicians. Besides participating in the State Fair's Stringorama, in which soloists and groups of stringed instruments play, the orchestra members perform at the PTA Round-Up, the State Fair Music Day Boston "Pops," the city-wide Orchestra Festival, and the annual Concerto Concert. Such events as these provide unlimited gains in musical talents for orchestra members.

Mrs. Evelyn Robbins, who ably directs this organization, enters the orchestra each year in the Solo and ensemble Contest, again inspiring each member to perfect his individual abilities. The annual Christmas Party highlights the orchestra's December activities. These many projects help to produce the accomplished musicians for which Woodrow Wilson is noted.

Band officers must meet often to keep the orchestra in top condition: Robert Welsh, librarian; Randy Farmer, manager; Cathy Rice, secretary; Dwight Judy, vice president; Jurgen Pumplun, president; Charles Tittsworth, assistant-student director; and Don Stockton, social chairman.

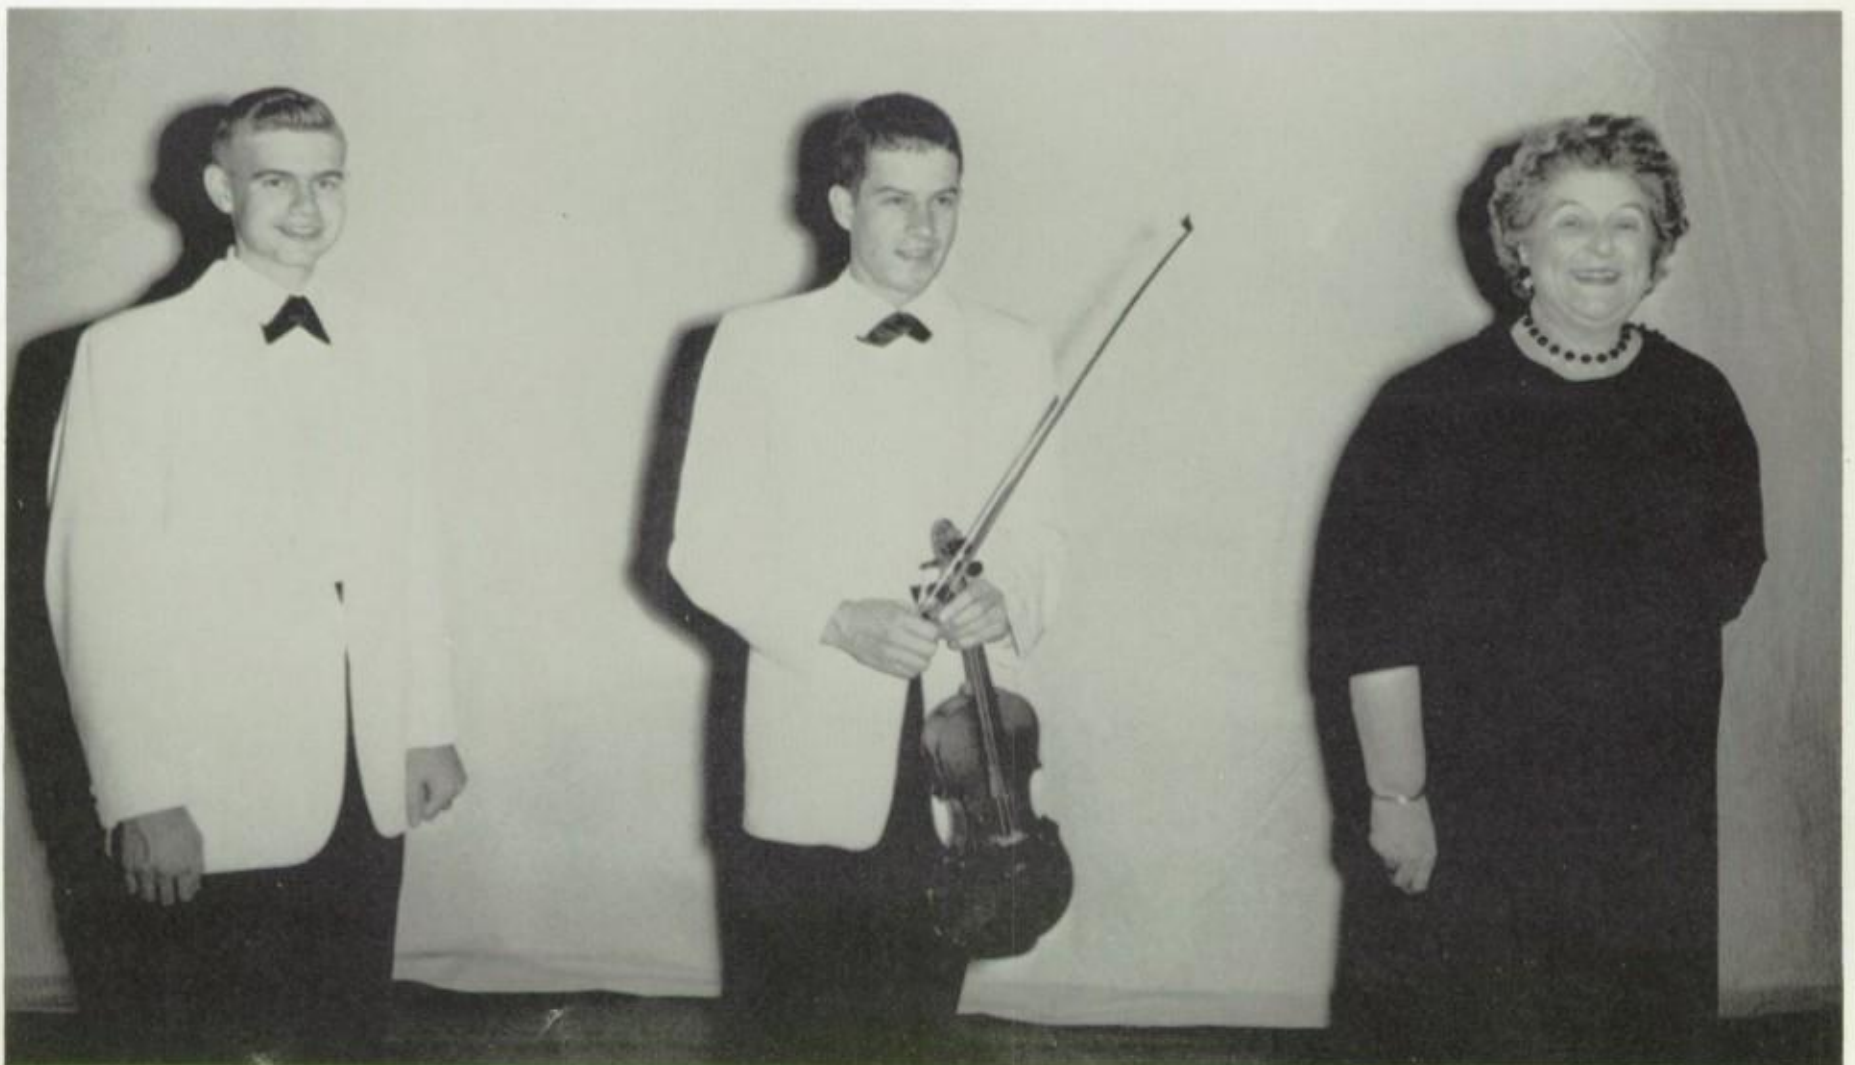

BEAUTIFUL MUSIC RESULTS FROM MUCH PRACTICE

The Woodrow Wilson Orchestra aims to acquaint the students, who are interested in orchestra, with some of the fine literature written for that medium, and to improve the individual musician's technique. Each member of the orchestra is given particular attention and guidance with his instrument so that he may do his part in making Woodrow's the best Orchestra in Dallas. Students spend many hours practicing on their instruments outside of class; many may be found practicing during study hall periods and before school in vacant classrooms.

Dwight Judy and our exchange student, Jurgen Pumplun, hold two of the highest honors in the Woodrow Wilson Orchestra. Dwight is the student director and Jurgen is the concert master. Standing proudly by her two leaders is Mrs. Evelyn Eward Robbins, director.

As a result of last year's overflowing Concert Choir, a new choir was seen this year at Woodrow. A Girls' Choir of thirty-six members was formally created. The Concert Choir has always been one of the most talented and popular groups in Woodrow, and, as a result, their activities and responsibilities are quite numerous. Fall activities include Round-Up and at least one pep assembly. The P.T.A. and city organizations always make requests of the Choir or its various members. Thanksgiving and Christmas brought traditional numbers, as always, well done. The speech and music departments joined forces for a dance and song revue, "Far Away Places," in December.

Spring and April brought still more programs and an Easter assembly for the Choir. A large number of choir members were included in the cast of "The Wizard of Oz," a musical fantasy given in the first part of March. Because of capacity crowds, a double night performance was scheduled and well attended.

Tryouts for Concert Choir are held in the spring of each year. Positions are limited and, therefore, competition is great. Those who do make it have fun-filled hours and rewarding work to look forward to.

Mr. Williams spends many long, hard hours in preparation for special programs.

SENIOR PUBLICATION IS WOODROW'S MAGAZINE

The four editors, Jim Scott, Shannon Harrison, Ronald Hatzenbuehler, and Margaret Tinsley collect material for Pub.

If you have lost any letters, six-page notes, or soap coupons, you most likely find them in print in the back of your Senior Pub. It is their duty to liberate notes from fellow students for Woodrow's humor magazine. In addition to confiscated notes, the Pub contains jokes, essays, humorous sketches, honest grudges, and the vanities of the world.

The Senior Pub, sponsored by Mr. J. W. Brown, is selected early in the fall. Students with a "C" average must hide their inhibitions till passed by the faculty. There are four editors and eight chairmen. Pub staffers meet at 4:00 on Mondays in the cafeteria; no civilians allowed. The long awaited Pub is received on Senior Day by eager Wildcats who have paid their dollars.

WOODROW WILSON NEWS WINS ALL-TEXAS RATING

Publishing the bi-weekly Woodrow Wilson News, although it is a tremendous task, is entirely a student project under the capable guidance of journalism teacher, Mr. Albert S. Johnston. Because of its many outstanding new articles and feature stories, the News has won many coveted honors and awards. An All-

Texas winner in the Texas High School Press Association, The News also participates in the Interscholastic League competition. The staff members who have a prescribed amount of their work published in the Woodrow Wilson News are given the Quill and Scroll Award, an incentive for newspapers of finer quality.

Art Club? No, the newspaper staff makes messes too. Involved in this one are Bobby Rogers, Cathy Rice, Anita Lambert, and Annette Daniels.

CRUSADER STAFFERS LIVE LIFETIME FROM SPRING TO NEXT SPRING

Two hundred eighty pages of Woodrow Wilson school life by March. That was the job of the 1963 Crusader staff. The task sounds insurmountable but the good staff always wins. Our theme and dedicatee were chosen last year. The introductory pages were done last summer. After school started, there was never enough time for all our jobs, but with teamwork, all of our deadlines were met, sooner or later. Before we knew it, March came early and brought late afternoon sessions for finishing last pages. It was not all work; there was our "C Week" assembly, our sponsor's birthday party, and a Christmas party.

SCIENCE-FICTION CLUB WOODROW'S NEWEST

Discussing up-coming reports for a Science Fiction Club meeting are the officers Paul Knight, president; Mary Alice Carnes, secretary; and James Skognes, vice president.

The Science Fiction Club was formed and sponsored by Mr. Johnston this year at Woodrow Wilson for interested students. The club is dedicated to the enjoyment of science-fiction in all its forms. The club has a lending library of its own. The circulation library is composed of books contributed by Mr. Johnston and members of the club. The club uses reports on books and movies and occasional guest speakers for programs. However, the club is primarily a student organization, and for the student aficionado, needing reading material, it is a gift in enjoyment.

P.T.A. ROUND-UP'S FIRST EXCITING PROGRAM OF YEAR

Relaxing after their song and dance number on the laps of their star beaus and Woodrow's star football players are Betsy Hill and Steve Mabry and Diane Hilley and Bobby Goodrich. These senior girls sang a Parisian number on the Round-Up talent show.

Enjoying the delicious barbecue which directly preceded the Round-Up talent show, "Six Flags Over Texas," are members of the faculty and their wives. Pictured are Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Hill, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Malone, and Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Owens.

Climaxing the Round-Up activities was the announcement of the 1962 King and Queen of the Fall Round-Up. The winners, selected by popular vote of the student body, were seniors Betsy Hill and Larry Locke.

P.T.A. BACKBONE OF SCHOOL ACTIVITIES.

Working diligently throughout the entire year is the Woodrow Wilson Parent-Teachers' Association. This organization, composed of teachers, mothers, and fathers, contributes time and assistance, making Woodrow an outstanding school. Under the sponsorship of the P.T.A., the annual Fall Round-Up is presented as the first major activity of the school year. Several school dances throughout the year are planned by the P.T.A. as well as the luncheon honoring the graduating seniors on Senior Day. The P.T.A. arranged for the buses which took many Wilsonites to the Temple game.

Meeting once every month, the P.T.A. gives interesting programs with guest speakers. Students often provide entertainment.

3:45 found the P.T.A. mothers busily setting up tables for the spaghetti supper on the blacktop Round-up afternoon.

MILITARY

The backbone of the corps includes Professor of Military Science Major James S. Conklin, Commandant Lt. W. W. Leavell, M/Sgt. Wallace Holbrook, and M/Sgt. Lonnie Redden.

TRAINING FOR LIVING AIM OF SCHOOL R.O.T.C.

Wildcat cadets are those at Woodrow who have learned "if democracy is to survive its people must be educated." These words well fit the corps whose purpose is to make the cadet a better citizen and prepare him for future service to his country.

Headed by Commandant Lt. Wm. W. Leavell and his staff of professional instructors the corps plays an important part in the curriculum. The corps is instructed in such fields as military organizations, field maneuvers, and the all important first aid. Also, cadets learn the important quality of discipline. Coming up through the ranks, each boy has the opportunity to become a regimental officer and one is chosen as Colonel, highest cadet rank of the corps.

Extracurricular activities include marching in parades and ushering at football games. During the month of June, cadets are offered the opportunity to attend Camp Dallas at Mineral Wells, Texas. Here, cadets are offered the routine of real military life.

AGAINST HEAVY ODDS; FINISH HONORABLY

The 1962 football season began badly for the Wildcat team, besieged by an attack of flu during the first two weeks of school. Still weak from the effects of the flu, the team lost their first two games to the hard hitting teams of Samuell and South Oak Cliff.

Woodrow bounced back, however, to defeat Temple in their out-of-town game. Woodrow also fought bravely against the city-champion-rated Bryan Adams team, but the brawny Cougars proved too much for the Wildcats. In subsequent games the Woodrow Wildcats slaughtered Adamson and previously undefeated Thomas Jefferson.

When Woodrow and Kimball, rivals for the 1961 Championship, met at Cobb Stadium, both teams were determined to win. It seemed as if the Wildcats would win until the Kimball Knights scored a touchdown in the last three minutes thus winning by two points. Bad luck followed the Wildcats into the Woodrow-Sunset game and Sunset killed the surprised Wildcats' hopes early in first quarter.

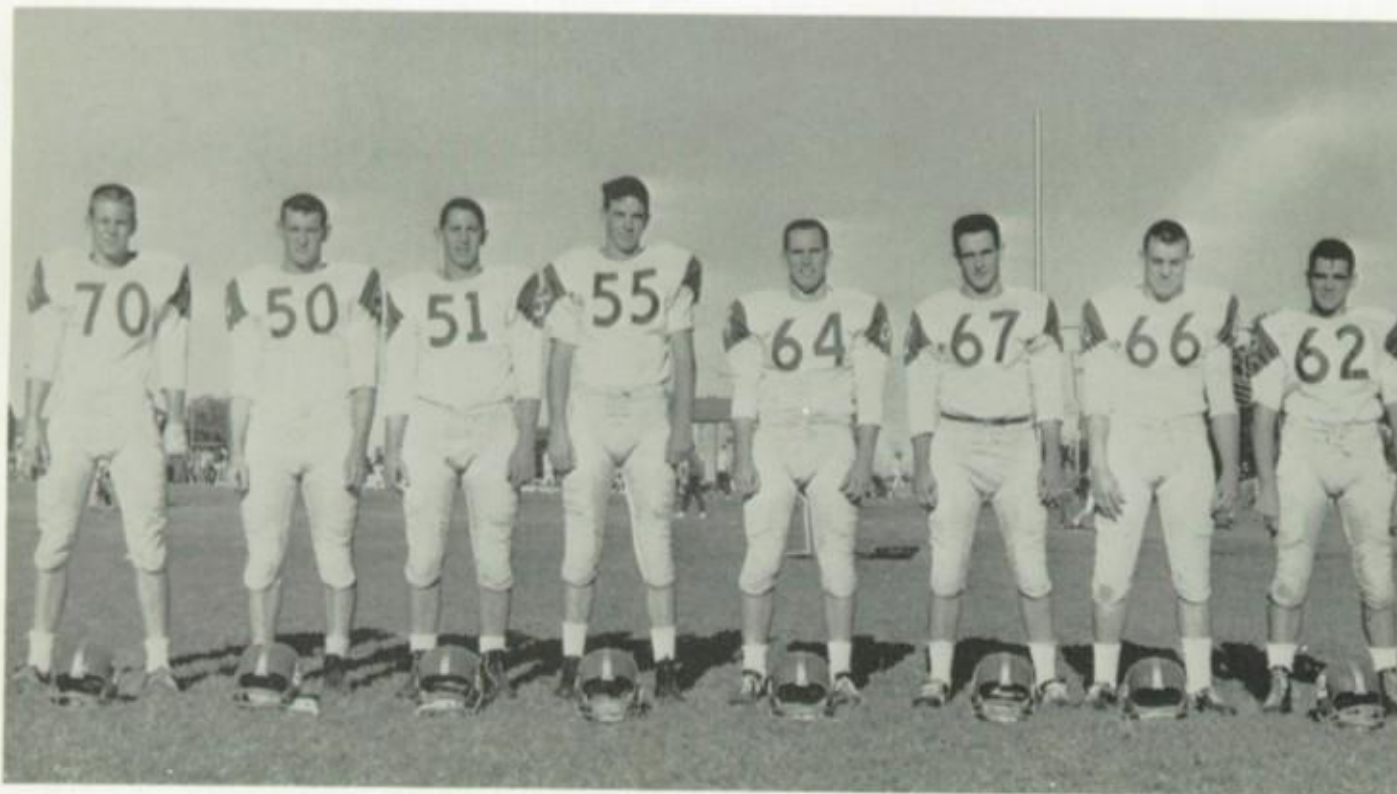

The Triple W snapped back in the next game defeating the North Dallas Bulldogs. Woodrow also won its homecoming game against Hillcrest, ending the season on a happy note.

FIRST GRID GAMES DISCOURAGING FOR WILDCATS

Ronnie Suggs (89) helps tackle a Samuell Spartan in the first game of the season. Samuell took this one 27-7.

WOODROW VS. SAMUELL

The first game of W.W.'s '62 season was against the Samuell Spartans, one of the city's strongest teams. The valiant Wildcats played a good game, almost equaling Samuell's ground yardage, in spite of the weakening of the entire team by a flu epidemic.

Woodrow's lone TD was made by a 12-yard run by halfback Steve Mabry. At the opening of the second half Wildcat Bill Short returned the kickoff from the 2 to the 22. At the end of the third quarter Rick White ran 14 yards and passed to Larry Kimrey for 14 more yards to account for the longest gains in the drive. Though the Wildcats played bravely, they were unable to defeat the vengeful Spartans. The final score was Woodrow 7, Samuell 27.

WOODROW VS. TEMPLE

The first two quarters of the W.W. Temple game were scoreless. However, the third was full of action. Just before the half, the Wildcats stopped a Temple drive at the one yard line immediately after Temple had won 6 points from a blocked W.W. punt.

In the last quarter of this exciting game Rickey White, quarterback, tied the score. This ended the lead Temple had held since the first half. Ronnie Carter kicked the extra point to make the score 7-6. To make Woodrow victorious, White ran a dazzling 61 yards. The Wildcats held their lead through a Temple threat at the 30 yard line and came out as the victors.

Managers Gerald Maynard, Larry Bridges, and Johnny Warren enjoy a brief coffee break during a hard practice session.

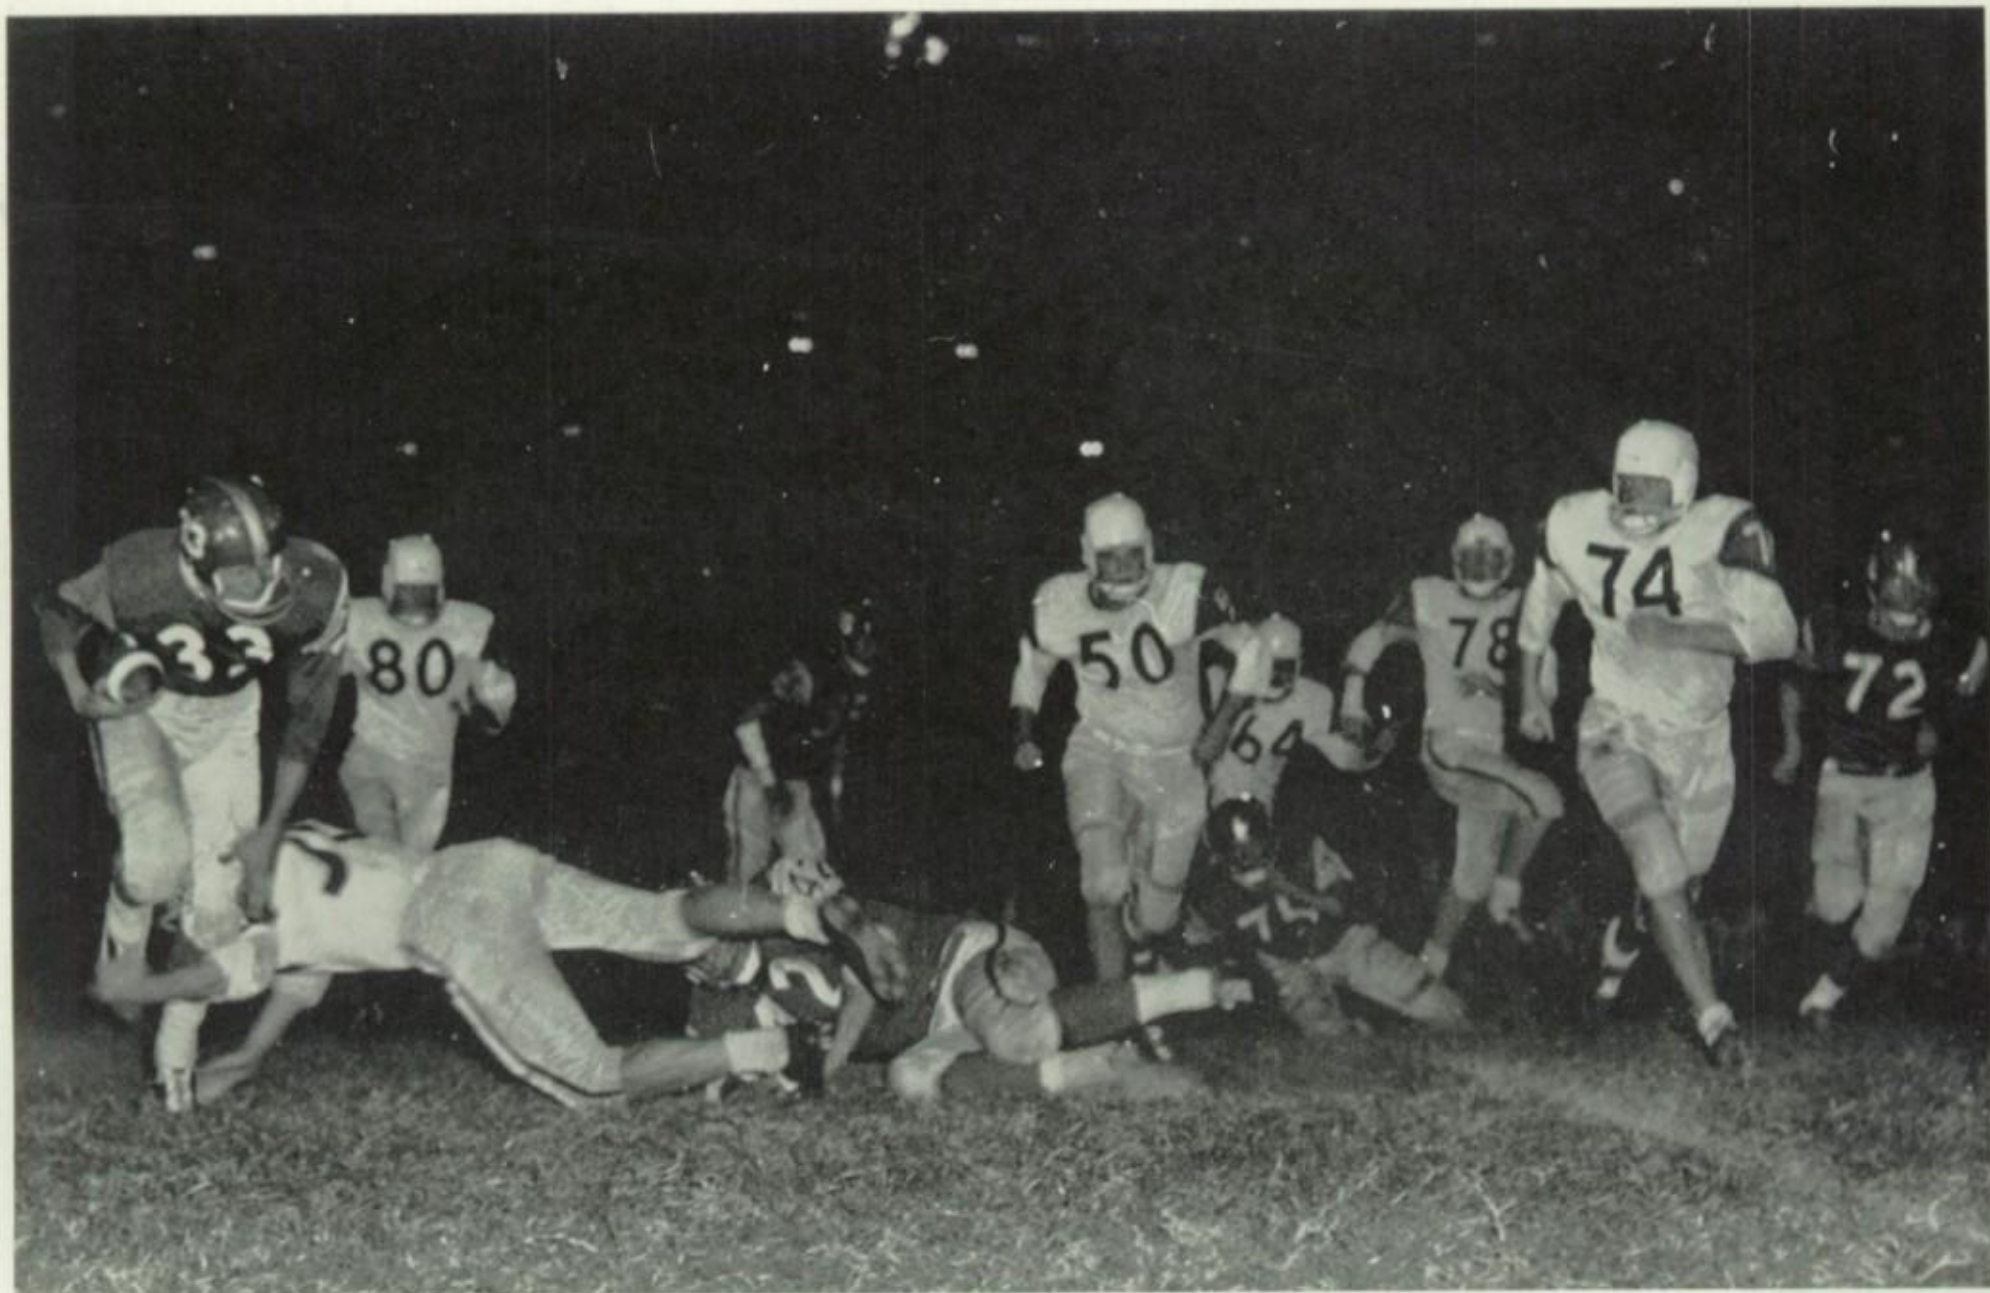

WILDCATS TRIUMPH OVER TEMPLE, 7-6

John Jameson (44) nimbly sidesteps charging SOC opponents. The Golden Bears edged Woodrow 8-7.

WOODROW VS. S.O.C.

S.O.C., the only team to defeat '61 City champs W.W., rose to barely scrape over the top 8-7 this year. The Wildcats made a touchdown in the second quarter when John Jameson ran 13 yards for 6 points and Ronnie Carter kicked the conversion point. Woodrow remained ahead until the third quarter when S.O.C., aided by 20 yards of penalties against W.W., made a touchdown and ran for 8 points. A couple of pass interceptions and two 15 yard penalties dimmed the Wildcat chances. After that, the Wildcats were held at their own end of the field while the S.O.C. defensive blocked a kick and stole two W.W. passes in the second half. This enabled them to win, though the Wildcats had led through the first half.

Back Bill Short (33) is surrounded by the Kimball Knights, who have downed the other Wildcat players. Woodrow dropped this one, 12-14.

W. W. WILDCATS MEET TRADITIONAL FOES IN CITY LEAGUE

WOODROW VS. KIMBALL

A 31-yard heave of a bomb in the form of a football pushed the Kimball Knights past the Wildcats. The defeat killed any hopes of Woodrow's defending city champs to retain its title.

However, until the surprise pass, the Wildcats appeared to be winning. Just before, in the fourth quarter, a 77-yard drive had given W.W. a 12-7 lead.

During the long 19-play drive, through the running of Ricky White, quarterback, and fullback Jerry Griffin, Woodrow picked up six first downs. Two plays after Griffin gained a first down from a "4th and 3," White ran a touchdown.

A jump pass attempt for the conversion point failed with 9 minutes and 10 seconds remaining. But the Knights promptly marched back 56 yards, then threw the 31-yard touchdown pass.

In the first half, Woodrow had gained six points with 4:08 left. Thanks to a Kimball fumble, Johnny Nash made possible a TD by recovering at the Knight 13. Four plays later, Bill Short made the touchdown. Woodrow, hindered by three fumbles and a pass interception, spent much time fighting off Kimball drives.

Coach Owens and part of the Wildcat team look on tensely during the last minutes of the Kimball game. However the score on the board didn't change.

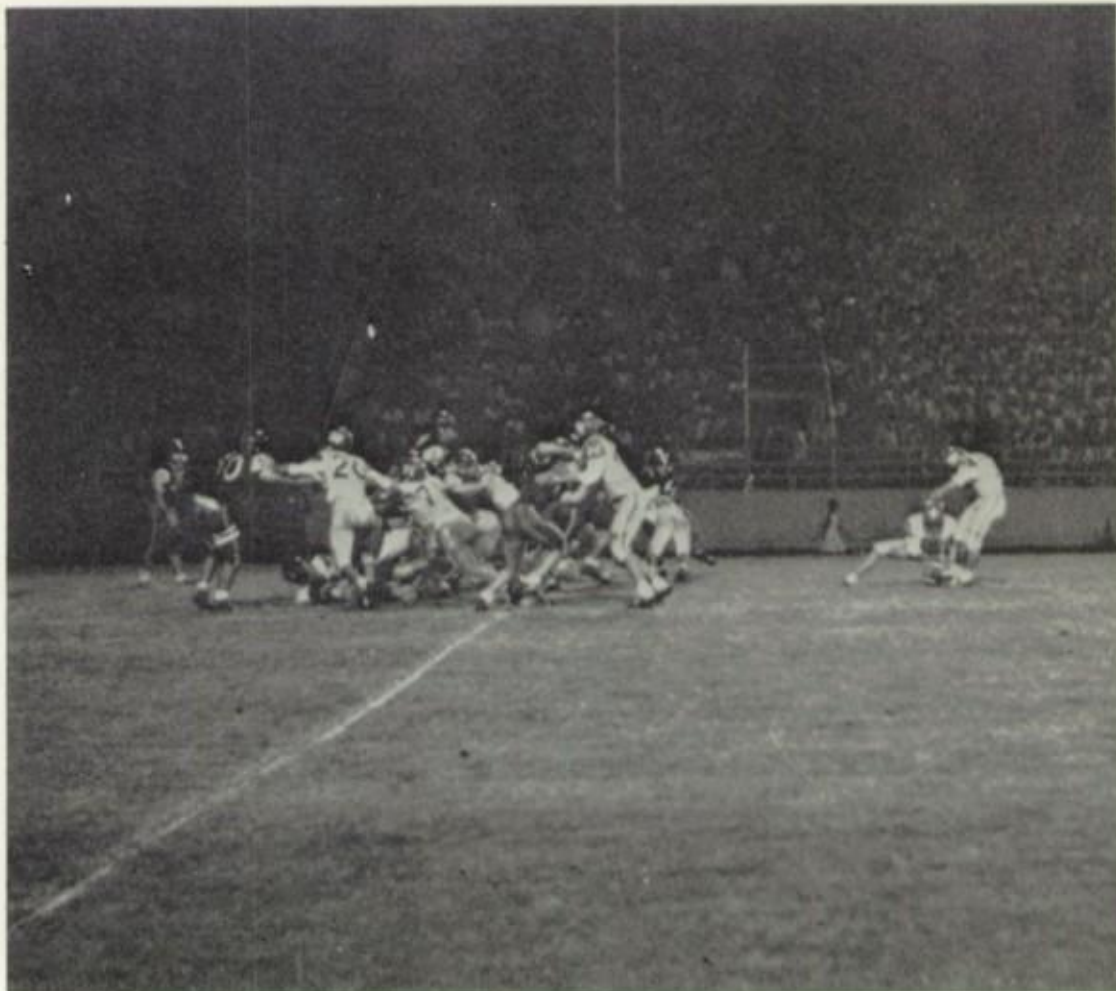

WOODROW VS. BRYAN ADAMS

The Wildcats were rather unfortunate in their traditional game with the Bryan Adams Cougars, played October 5, at Forester Field. They lost by a narrow margin, 26-20.

The score was tied at the half, 14-14, and again in the fourth quarter, 20-20, before the Cougars broke through for their last touchdown. Quarterback Ricky White made our first touchdown with a one-yard run, five plays after Steve Brin (75) recovered a Cougar fumble. Ricky White's 83-yard touchdown run and Jerry Griffin's run for the extra points tied the score in the second quarter, 14-14.

Bill Short tied the score again at 20-20 in the fourth quarter with a 2-yard run over the line. The Wildcats made a valiant attempt to beat the clock after the Cougar's last touchdown but were not successful.

Bobby Goodrich (20), end, wades through a heap of Cougars and Wildcats in an effort to gain much needed yardage. The Cougars won this Cat fight, 26-20.

ALL GAMES CONFERENCE, EXCEPT ONE

Jerry Griffin evades two Adamson players as he gains the precious yardage. The Silver-Flame boys romped through to a 35-13 win.

WOODROW VS. ADAMSON

The Wildcats trampled the Adamson Leopards 35-13 at Forester Field. Woodrow completely dominated the action, including 307 yards rushing and 13 penalties for 135 yards. Quarterback Ricky White, fullback Jerry Griffin, and end Bobby Goodrich led in touchdowns, which numbered five. A Goodrich touchdown was the one that put the Wildcats ahead to stay. He also caught three of Woodrow's four completed passes for 68 yards.

Adamson tied the score in the first period at 7-7. They were aided by a 15-yard penalty against the Wildcats. Though an Adamson pass fell short, and Woodrow would have taken over on its own 29 yard line, a roughness penalty gave Adamson a first down. Six plays later they scored to tie it at 7-7. Almost immediately Woodrow bounced back with a score after three plays. Steve Mabry ran 60 yards to Adamson's 17 on the first play after the kickoff. Griffin picked up seven yards and White passed to Goodrich for a touchdown. Carter kicked five straight extra points.

John Jameson (44) runs interference for Jerry Griffin during TJ game. The Triple W blanked the Rebels 13-0.

WILDCATS' 5-5 RECORD MAINTAINS HIGH SPIRITS

Millard Chambliss (67) discusses strategy with Coach Miles during the TJ game.

WOODROW VS. T. J.

Woodrow, frustrated by three conference losses, proved to Thomas Jefferson that there is life in the Wildcats yet as they stole a 13 to 0 victory from the previously unbeaten Rebels.

The defending District 6 AAAA champions watched the Rebels ram the opening kickoff back to the Wildcat 2-yard line. However, when the Wildcats stopped that drive, the Rebel offense ended. Jefferson was never inside the Woodrow 30 the rest of the evening.

Mistakes which killed at least three Rebel opportunities, paved the way for both Woodrow touchdowns. Fullback Jerry Griffin, a terror on both offense and defense, bulled the ball over in two plays to put Woodrow in the lead, 6-0. Jerry Griffin, Ricky White, and halfback Steve Mabry advanced the ball to the 3-yard line, from which White dived into the end zone. This time Ronnie Carter kicked the extra point, gave Woodrow its second touchdown, and made the final score 13-0.

WOODROW VS. SUNSET

The surprisingly potent Sunset Bisons notched all their points in clubbing District 6 AAAA rival Woodrow 21-6 at Forester Field. Few of the handful of chilled fans entertained a doubt about the outcome after the Bisons punched over their second touchdown seven minutes after the starting whistle.

Woodrow's lone touchdown came with a minute and five seconds remaining in the game. Jerry Griffin dashed over from five yards out. Ricky White tried a pass for an extra point, but it was intercepted, and the clock ran out.

Bill Short dances down the sideline for a first down against Sunset.

Bobby Goodrich tries to catch a pass while wearing a Sunset Bison around his jersey. Woodrow's sun set to the tune of 6-21.

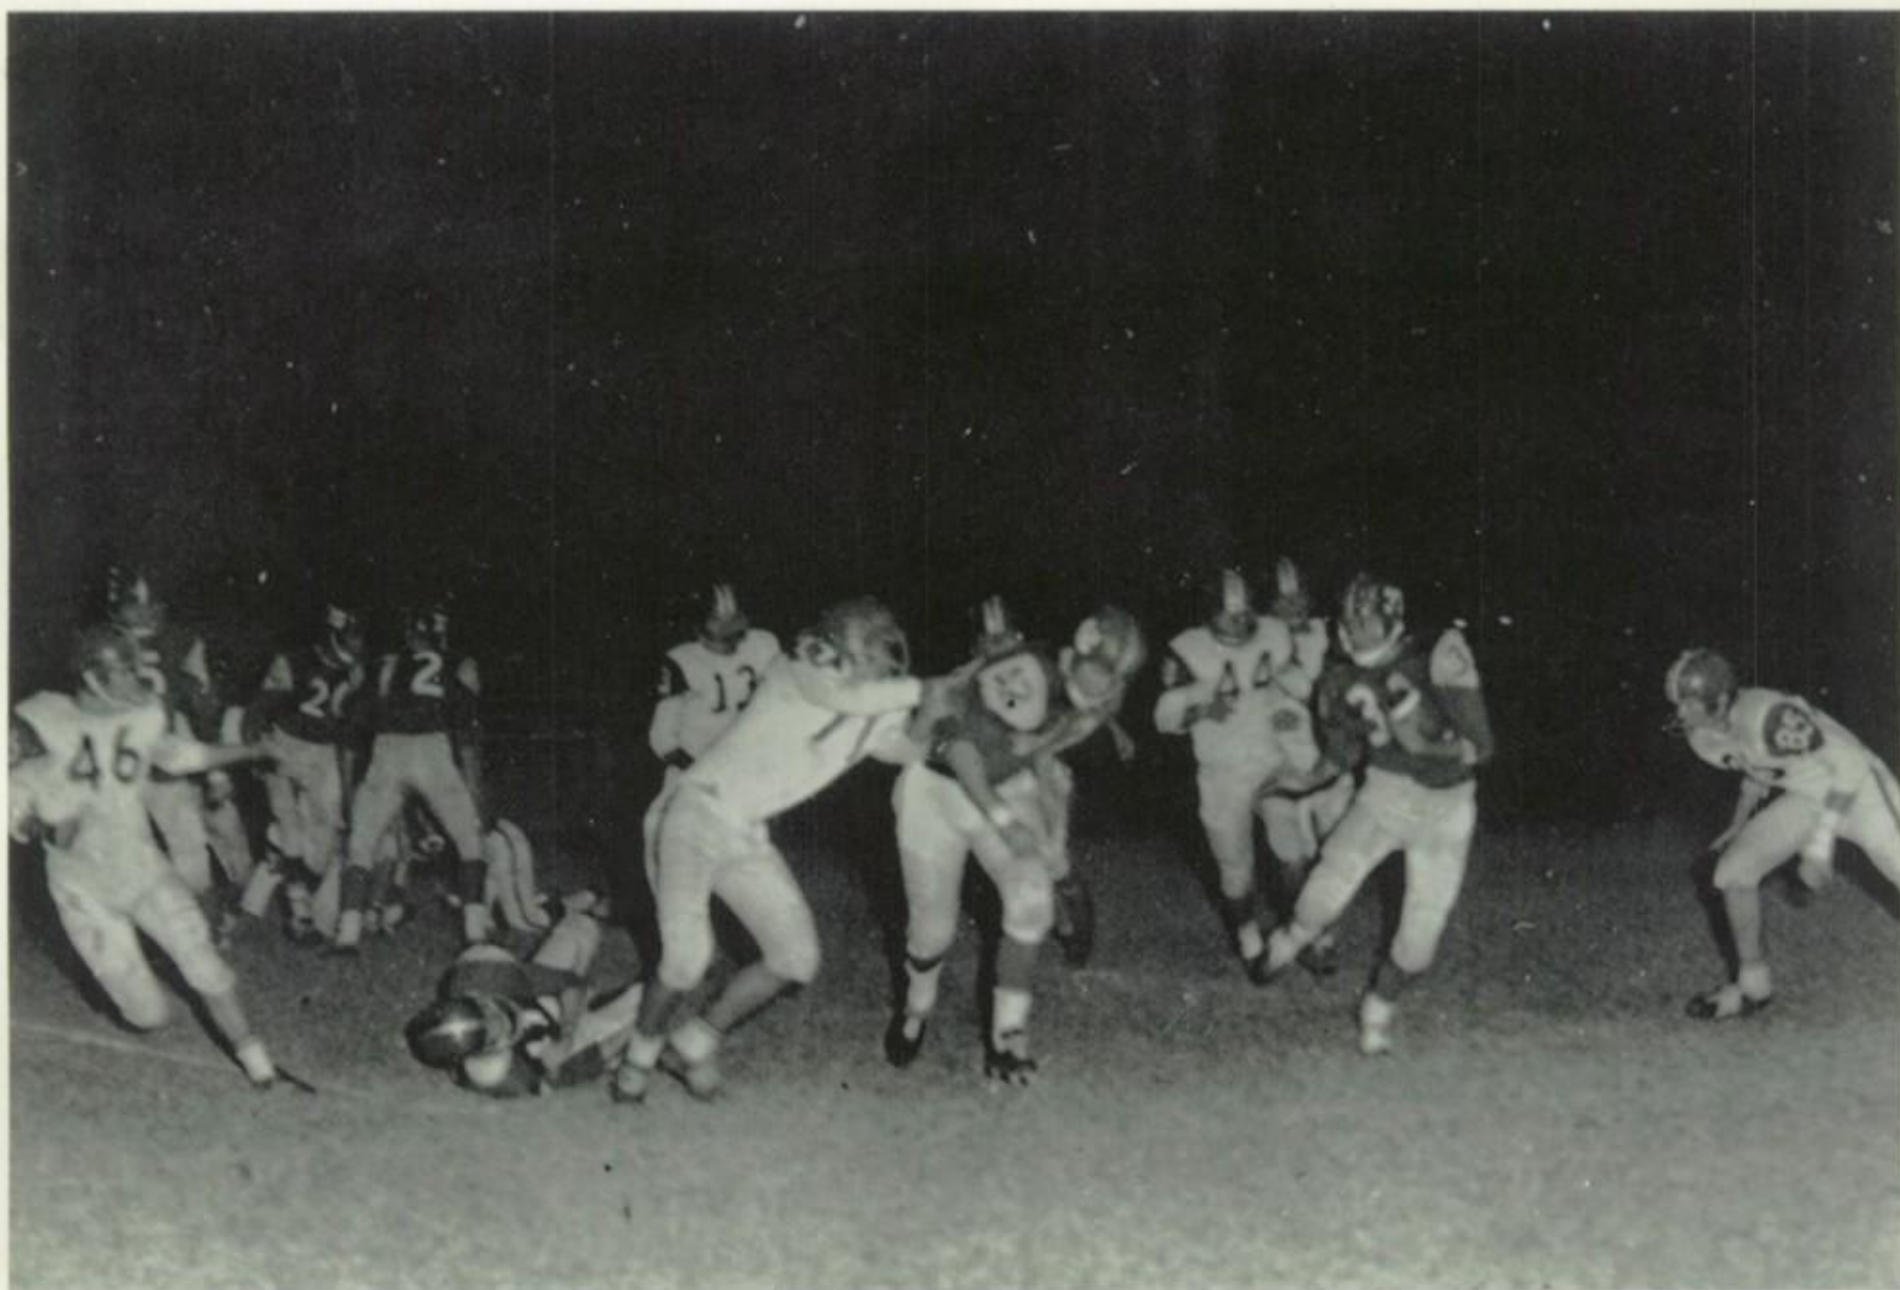

WOODROW VS. NORTH DALLAS

The cold, cold weather did not seem to keep the fighting Wildcat fans at home. They yelled and yelled as they watched their team end the game with a 27-6 victory over the Bulldogs. North Dallas had a hard time getting a sustained drive going as they fell before the Wildcat team.

The Wildcats led off with a 43-yard pass play in the second period from Ricky White to end Bobby Goodrich for the first touchdown. Also in the second quarter, Jerry Griffin followed a 25-yard gain by a 10-yard sprint. Ronnie Carter kicked for the extra point.

It was Griffin again in the third quarter, hitting from one yard out after the Wildcats took a punt and drove from their own 20.

The Big Reds picked up their last tally in the series which followed the Bulldog kickoff. White carried from the 1-yard line on a quarterback keeper.

Bill Short (33) carries the ball in the Hillcrest game as Jerry Griffin (42) successfully blocks a would-be Panther tackle. This homecoming match ended happily for the Wildcats, 14-7.

WOODROW WINS LAST GAME OF SEASON

Principal C. C. Smith crowns a dazed but lovely Betsy Hill Homecoming Queen at the dance following the Hillcrest game.

WOODROW VS. HILLCREST

The game against Hillcrest was an exciting one, though the cold was intense. W.W. made 6 points, then Hillcrest forged ahead with 7 points. The Woodrow Wildcats then regained the lead to make the final score 14-7. The scoring was done by Ricky White, quarterback, and Jerry Griffin, fullback. White scored on a long drive, Griffin on a 2-yard plunge. White ran the ball for 2 points on the last touchdown.

The halftime performance of this last game of the season was a presentation of the homecoming finalists. They were Betsy Hill, Joan McCulloch, Diane Hilley, Beverly Benthul, and Sandra Duckworth.

Ten, nine, eight—the mighty Wildcat team looks as if it is about to take off into orbit. They are really just exercising to stay in condition for the coming game.

WILDKITTEN GRIDDEERS LOOK TO GOOD SEASON ON VARSITY '63

Part of the Wildcat team took time from their practice session to show our cameraman the funeral wreath the Rebels sent before the T. J. game. But they should have kept it for themselves, for that night the Wildcats really buried the Rebels.

Apparently the B-team is doing well in this after-school game, for the spectators 'do not seem too worried. In fact, Coach Owens looks as relaxed as if he hadn't a care in the world.

LETTERMEN WORK HARD, GAIN RECOGNITION

The fighting Wildcat football team fought hard in the 1962 season, trying to keep the "City Champ" title at Woodrow. Although the Wildcats did not come up on top, they exhibited great spirit at all times. At the end of the season the team chose John Jameson and Jerry Griffin as co-captains.

The season ended with several outstanding "football heroes." Bobby Goodrich along with Jerry Griffin, Jimmy Dale, Steve Brin, and Ricky White were honored by being selected as All-City players. Bobby Goodrich and Jerry Griffin also gained additional honors by being chosen as All-District players.

On January 29 the twenty-one Wildcat lettermen received their red and gray letter jackets. Letter jackets are awarded to those who are scholastically eligible, have participated in the required number of practice hours, and have played in a certain number of quarters during the actual game.

Third Row: Coach Charlie Fields, Manager, Ronnie Green, Don Ridgway, Ronnie Wilson, Grgg Holmes, Jimmy Conyers, Bill Vaughn, Larry Garrison, Richard Muller, Gerry Storey, Tommy Milam, Dennis McAdams, Manager, Chuck Brawner, Coach, Bobby Locke.

The Woodrow Wildkittens, playing valiantly under the direction of Bobby Locke and Charlie Fields, unfortunately lost their first two games. The first game of the season, against Samuell, was lost by the narrow margin of 12 to 8. In the second game, against SOC, fumbles and interceptions cost the Wildkittens the game. They lost 18 to 6. The fighting B team had only a fair season though they beat Adamson, Sunset and North Dallas.

The Kimball game was the most outstanding, with the Wildkittens holding the Knight "B" team to 3 first downs. The Knights won in the last minute with a surprise touchdown.

The Woodrow Wilson basketball team got off to a rousing start this season by winning the Irving Invitational Tournament in which they defeated three outstanding teams and brought back the first place trophy to Woodrow.

In another exciting tournament the Wildcat cagers cinched the Temple trophy by out playing the Temple Wildcats and two other teams. The Woodrow Wildcats played hard in the Dr. Pepper Invitational Tournament but went down to defeat after losing to the Hillcrest Panthers.

A season of close competition thrilled Woodrow spectators as the team entered the District playoffs with a great deal of skill and enthusiasm. In spite of the defeats the Wildcats supported the team and cheered them on regardless of the outcome.

Much credit should be given to the untiring efforts of the team's coach, Bennie Kelly, and managers, Jerry Hastings and Chuck Brawner.

The 1962-1963 Wildcat "B" basketball team worked and played hard, improving and learning much by experience. Their spirited games, played mostly in the recreation building at Fair Park, brought spectators yelling to their feet many times. The games the "B" team played against other Dallas "B" teams made for exciting afternoons. The team won six games and lost only four.

The main purpose of the "B" basketball team is to give game experience and training to the sophomores who learn to hold positions on the varsity squad. A new facet in the "B" team program this year was the introduction of three teams instead of one, which produces a competitive fighting spirit among the players. These three teams are "the Woodrow," "the Wilson," and "the Wildcats."

The boys showed their appreciation to their coach, Ralph Hollywood, at various times acclaiming his efforts to produce an outstanding "B" team.

CHEERLEADERS WORK DILIGENTLY TO SUPPORT TEAMS AND TO KEEP THE WILDCATS' SPIRITS HIGH

"Two bits—four bits—six bits a dollar, all for the Wildcats stand up and holler!" It takes more than healthy lungs to be a cheerleader, for being a cheerleader is not all glory and glamour. These students, elected by the vote of the student body, must keep their grades above average and be examples of good behavior at all times. They have to uphold the honor that belongs to Woodrow Wilson.

The six bouncing cheerleaders began their practice in May, shortly after being elected. They are required to attend a week-long cheerleader clinic at S.M.U. during the summer before they become full-fledged Woodrow Wilson cheerleaders. A week of cheerleader school climaxed their practice with sore muscles and strange aches, but Larry Locke, Betsy Hill, Gary Smith, Dimi Athens, Tommy Greer, and Susan Hines, were undaunted and eager to begin the 1962-1963 season. The Wildcat cheerleaders upheld the Woodrow name by coming in second place in the Cheerleading school.

The Wildcat cheerleaders also put in a lot of overtime. They planned the pep assemblies and practiced their yells trying for perfection. They decorated the halls with red and gray streamers and posters which added to the football season spirit. The lively six sold booster ribbons early before school; they kept the student spirit up at the almost "weakly-supported" basketball games. Most of all they were trying to be everything a Wildcat was supposed to be.

Throughout football and basketball season, regardless of the score, these school patriots backed each game with enthusiasm and were a major factor in maintaining school spirit.

Surprised and elated, Tommy Greer rises to join the group of newly chosen 1962-1963 Wildcat cheerleaders.

Perhaps the most well known and historically honored of all sports are the track and field sports. Since the first Olympic games were held in early Greece, men have been competing to prove their agility and prowess. Those who participated in the sports were known to be men who had a keen competitive spirit and an inborn sense of honor.

The Woodrow Wilson track team possesses all the aforementioned qualities. Coach "Pete" Owens, a former track man himself, works with the Wildcat track and field team, encouraging each man to perfect his particular ability. The team works out daily in preparation for a weekly triangle meet. A larger meet, held each Saturday, involves more teams competing for the honors.

Among the events included in this sport are the pole vault, the shot put, the 100, 200, 440 yard dashes, and the mile relay. To qualify as a letterman, a boy must place fourth or better in a district competition. A large number of boys participate in track and field events who enjoy physical competition and wish to develop physical fitness although they do not expect to compete for honors.

GOOD SHOWING IN PROSPECT FOR BASEBALLER'S

Close on the heels of spring comes the Woodrow Wilson "A" team playing season. The 19 boys who make up the Wildcat team practice each afternoon on the baseball diamond in Randall Park. The boys get in condition by running, exercising, pitching, catching, and hitting.

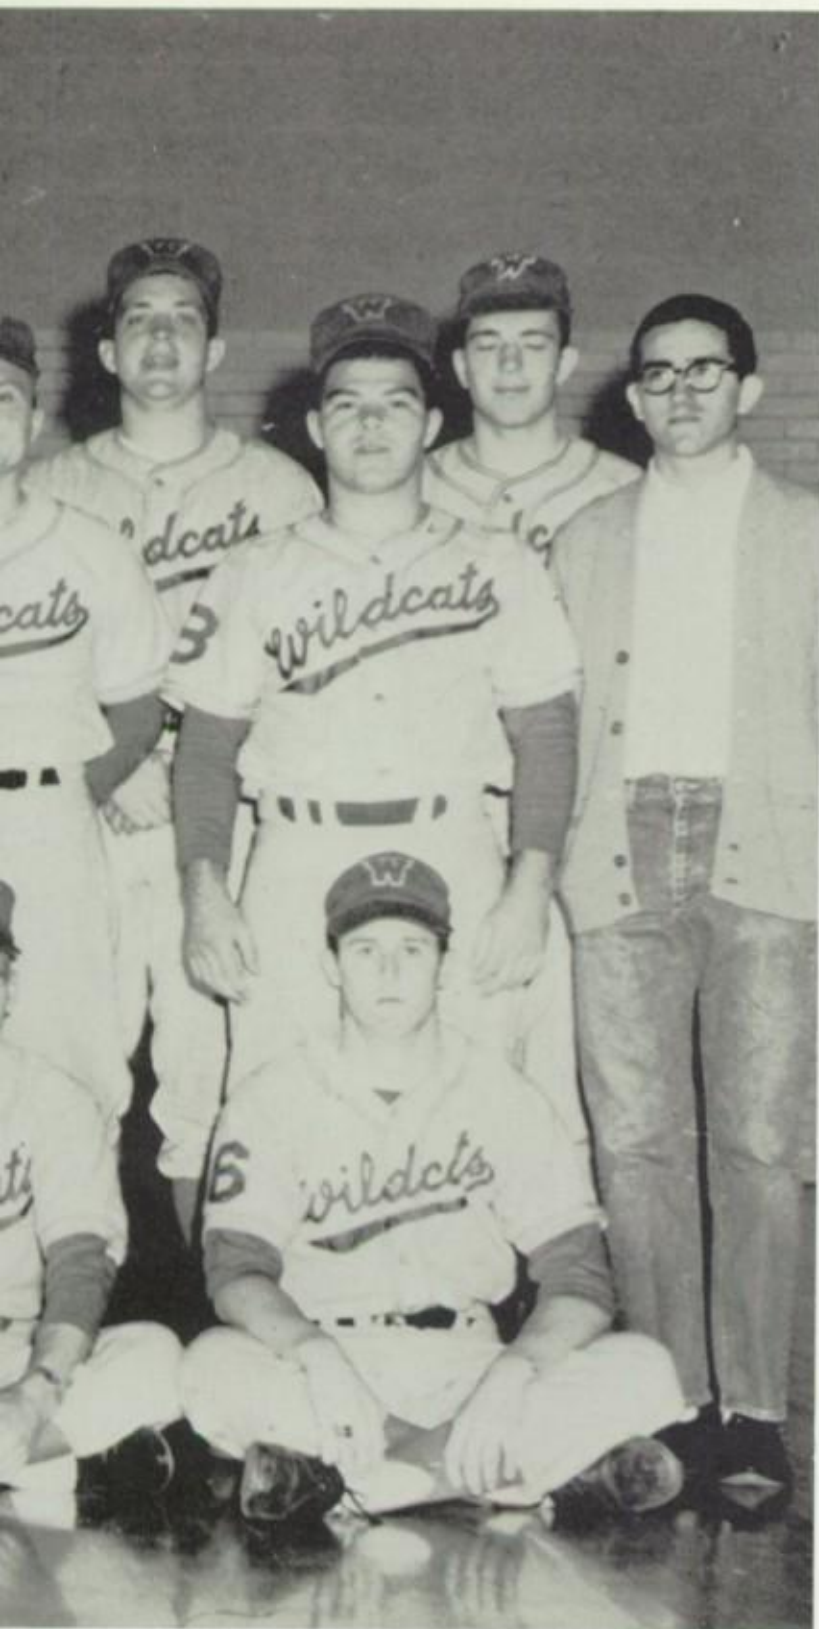

Coach Bobby Lock, in his second season at Woodrow as baseball coach for the Wildcats, came from De Kalb, Texas, where he held the position of head coach. Under Coach Lock's leadership the team and student body have looked forward to a successful season.

Only two team members are returnees from last year's team. They are Bobby Rogers and David Watkins.

Baseball, one of the many games originated in America, has gained worldwide fame in the last twenty years. At Woodrow also the game has gained recognition.

The Wildcat team finished second place in the zone playoff during the 1962 baseball season, having lost to the Samuell Spartans. The Woodrow Wilson Wildcat team played all its district games at Reverchon Park.

After last season's record of only two losses the Wildcat baseballers are confident that this season will be even better. If their present playing is an indication of their ability they have a good chance of reaching the top. When the Crusader went to press, the team had won two and lost only one.

CHARLIE FIELDS
Coach

The goal of the members of the Woodrow Wilson "B" baseball team is to make the varsity squad. They follow much the same practice schedule as the varsity team and play regularly scheduled games.

The team is coached by a returnee to the Woodrow Wilson faculty, Charlie Fields. Coach Fields teaches the players the fundamentals of good baseball, and the all-important practice of good sportsmanship.

After applying the techniques taught them, the "B" team enters into competition with other Dallas schools. The team plays each sophomore team in the city twice, the season beginning in March and continuing to the end of school. The team having the best record is declared city champion. The "B" squad is composed mainly of sophomores who usually join the "A" team their second year.

Joe Monzingo, Dennis McAdams, and Sammy Fife are the "B" team outfielders. They catch hard hits and a quick outfielder can keep the other team from scoring.

WILDCAT RACQUETEERS PERFECT TECHNIQUE

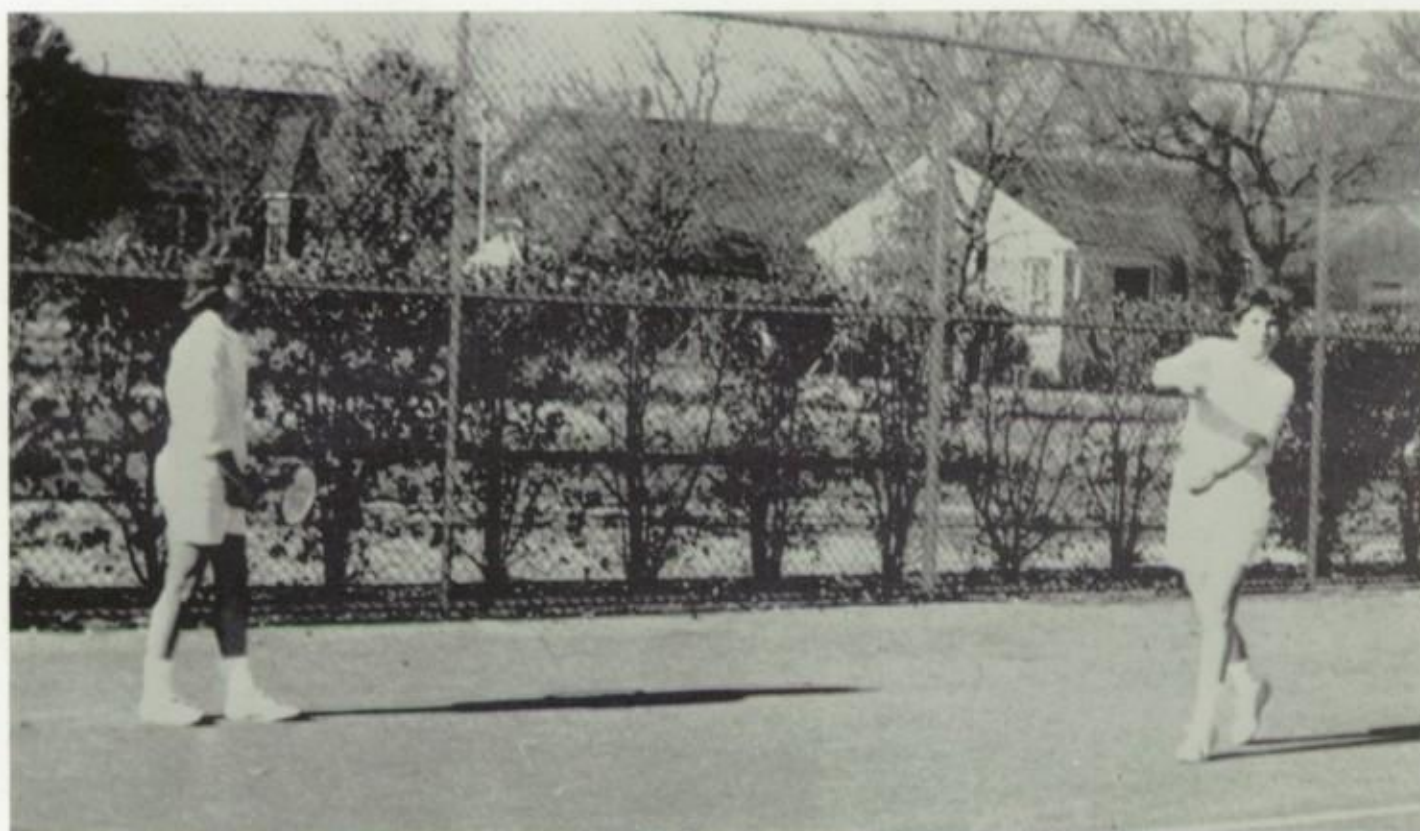

One might develop a crick in the neck from watching the whizzing Wildcat tennis team. The team practices daily in Randall Park. They compete with other Dallas high school teams and those in the surrounding region in various tournaments.

Early in the school year in September twenty or thirty hopeful tennis racqueteers begin to practice in Randall Park. By mid-November coach Dale McNeil, after offering helpful advice and guidance, chooses the team for the year.

The team practices till early March when they begin competing with other schools. Lettermen are chosen from those who have participated in at least half the games played and have won at least half the games in which they have participated. Margaret Hardin is the only letterman returning from last season. This year's tennis team is looking forward to improving last year's performance.

GOLF TEAM KEEPS ALIVE SCHOOL TRADITION

BUFORD CATES

The game of golf traces its ancestry back to the middle ages when the Scottish people first began to play with sticks and leather balls stuffed with feathers. The beginnings of golf in North America are not clearly recorded. There were organizations which functioned as "golf clubs," and "golf greens" were mentioned in both South Carolina and Georgia as early as the eighteenth century.

The Woodrow Wilson golf club, though not as old, has had a distinguished past. In recent years, the golf club has won several city championships.

The team begins practicing in early September but plays no games until February. It then plays a match a week until the district match in April. This match determines which team goes on to the regional meet.

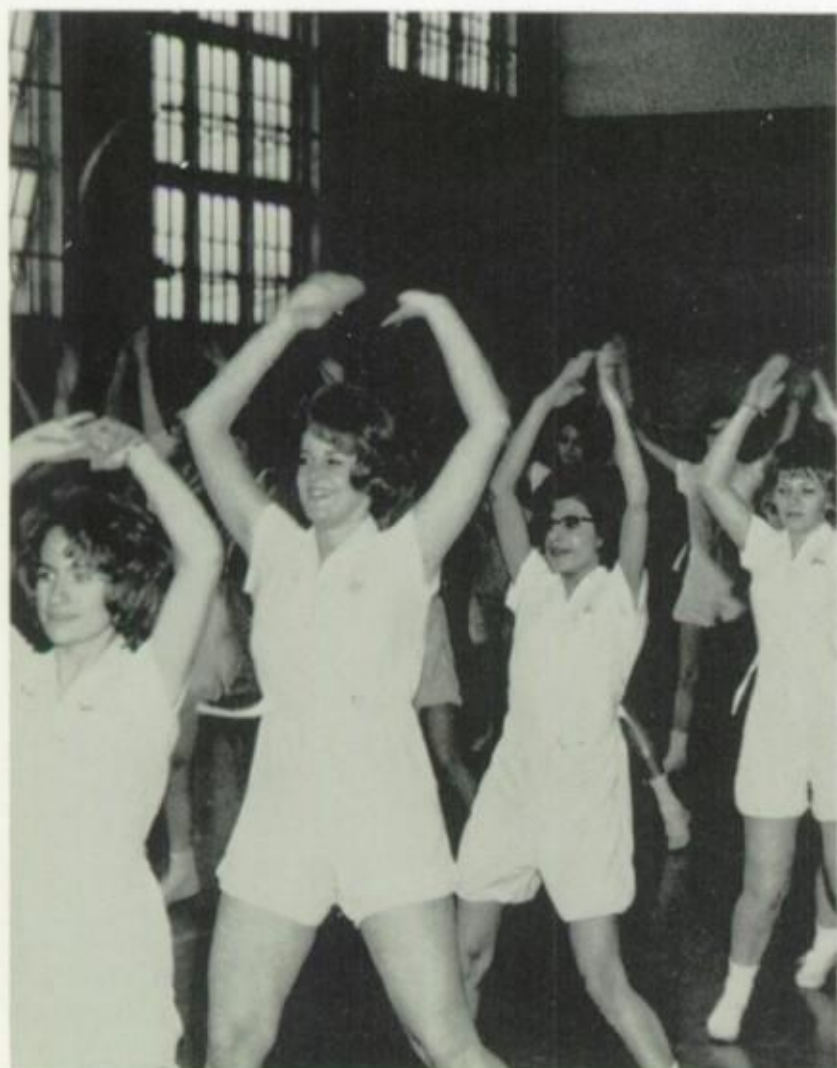

This year only two seniors, Steve Gay and Buddy Lackey are members of the team. The deficit of upper classmen, however, is made up by the nine sophomore members who are eager to become as adept as the seniors.

The sixth period gym class spread their wings as they exercise those aching muscles.

FROM VOLLEYBALL TO BASEBALL — SO IT RUNS IN GIRLS' P.E.

The shrill blow of the whistle, "Heels on the black line," and "Corporals advance" become a very familiar part of gym class to Woodrow girls. Some of these classes are so large that roll taking is a major operation for gym teachers, Miss Betsy Clifford and Mrs. Wilhelmina Bless.

Gym classes provide girls with some of the exercise toward physical fitness which has become such a popular issue in the United States. The girls do routine exercises at the beginning of each class as well as undergo the national Physical Fitness Test three times a year. Popular sports among the girls are volleyball, basketball, and baseball. Gym captains are elected for each sport; these girls are in charge of coaching and managing their teams. Competition is keen, and excited yells issue forth from the gym doors continually.

"What will they think of next!" exclaim many of the boys breathlessly as they complete the requirements of the president's physical fitness test. Since this is the second year the Physical Education classes have participated in this program the percentage of those who are physically fit has risen greatly. Who knows by next year they may even be taking part in a fifty mile hike!

After two and one-half minutes of strenuous calisthenics each day, the boys are ready to participate in various games such as basketball, volleyball, and football. The competition is always keen. In the spring, the boys' thoughts lightly turn to baseball, and the diamonds at Randall Park get a thorough work out as they are taken over by the various physical education classes.

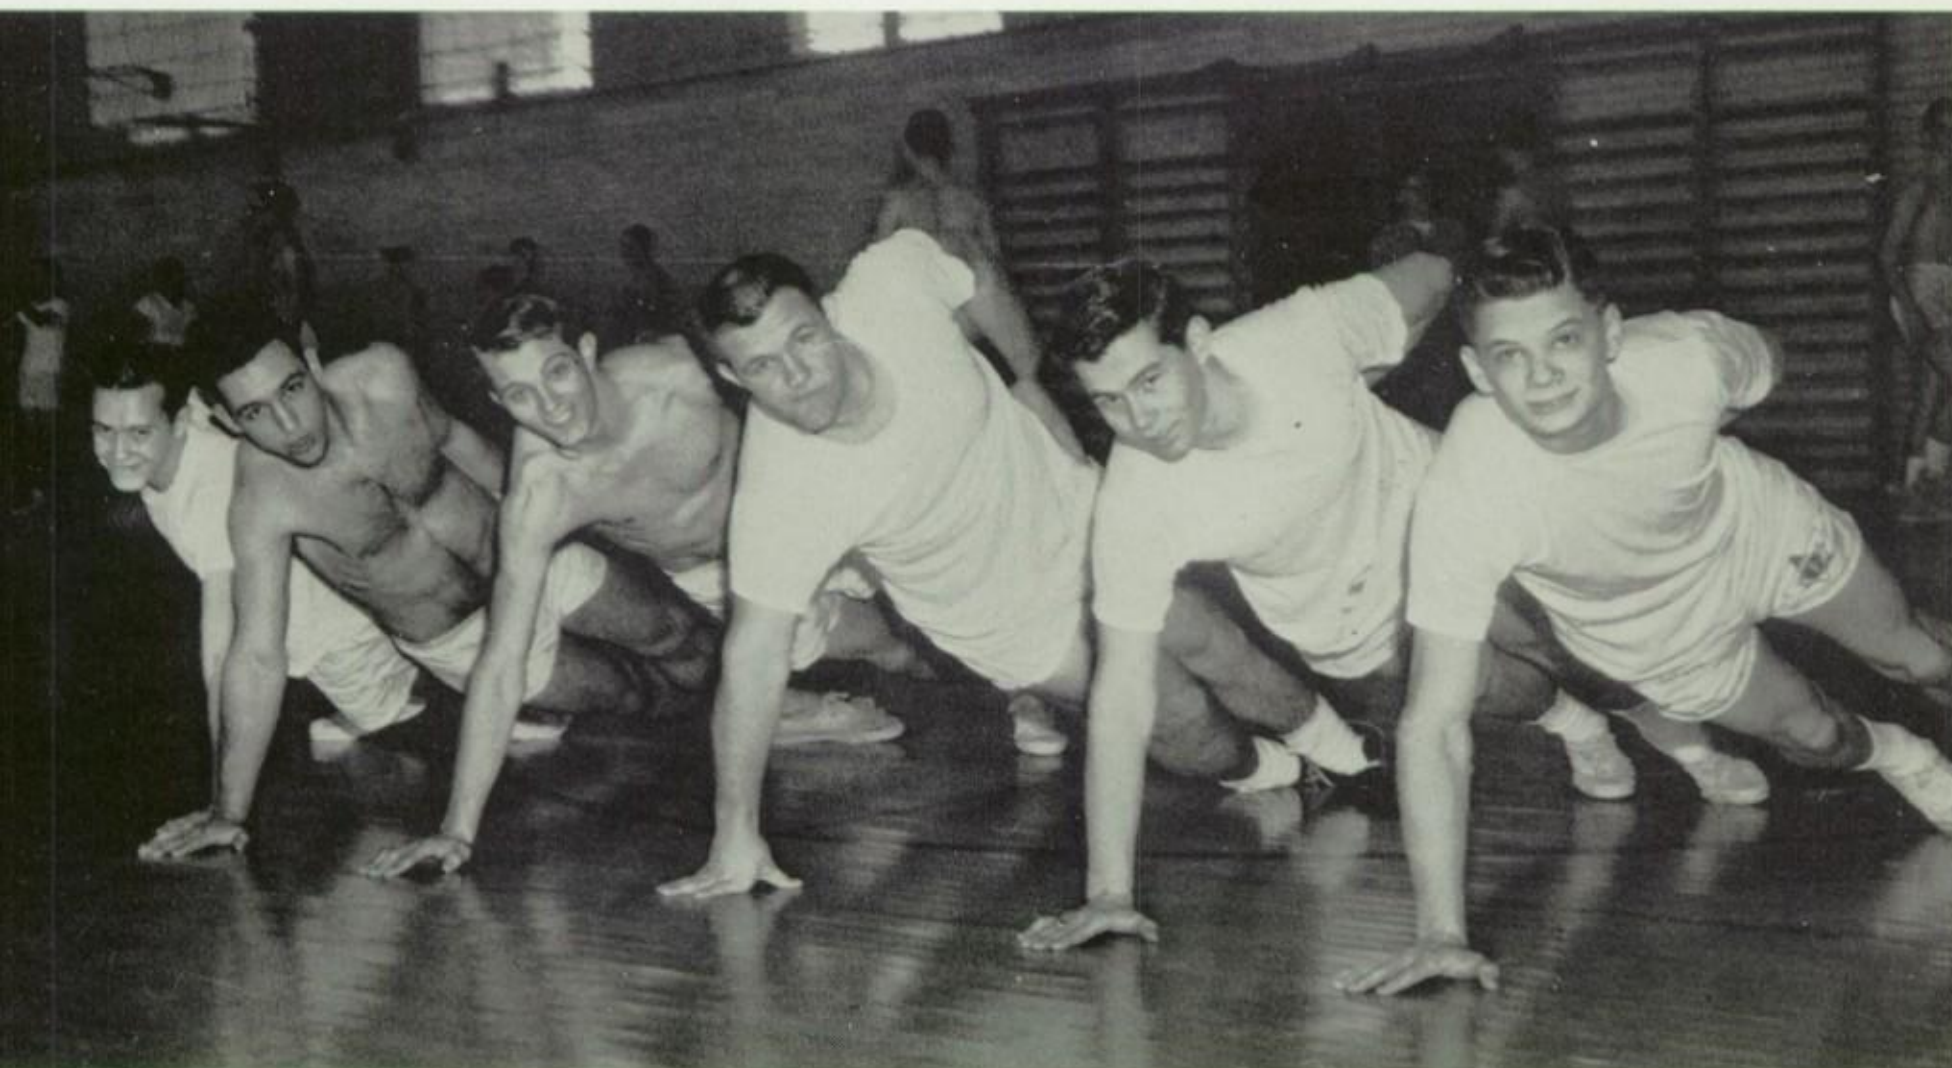

These classes are conducted by Mr. Emmett Hill who supervises the games as well as the physical fitness program. Physical Education is a requirement for graduation unless a student is excused for physical reasons or participates in J.O.T.C.

The hard-played basketball games in boy's P.E. classes afford an exciting hour for all players.

PREPARATION . . . Extra commencement folders are at a premium as shown here, where Mary Jane Thorpe, Marsha Wharton, Hugh Blevins, Sylvia Boyer, and Mary Gill are sneakily making little pieces of paper for the big climax to follow.

EXECUTION . . . Up goes the confetti as the last strains of the Woodrow Wilson Alma Mater die, thus following a long-standing custom at Wilson graduation exercises.

AFTERMATH . . . The "snowfall" of confetti decorates the caps of the now-fully-graduated seniors, wearing various expressions of relief, happiness, and sadness.

A SENIOR'S MEDITATION

A senior at last! Our goal has finally been reached, yet it is difficult to believe that we are not dreaming. We have lived through being the scared sophomore, the more confident junior, and finally the "mighty" senior. As we glance at our senior rings in years to come, we shall never forget the many aspects of our final year at Woodrow Wilson: crowded halls, pep assemblies, football games, musicals, homework, themes, exams, the senior play, senior prom, and senior assembly. On May 30, 1963, our names will be added to the long list of Wilson graduates. As we sing the Alma Mater for the final time and receive our diplomas on our graduation day, the words written in bold letters above the stage of the auditorium, "Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life," will ring in our ears and guide our footsteps forever.

Mrs. Elizabeth Enlow, Senior Sponsor, discusses graduation announcements and memory albums with Carol Swift and Peggy Chambers, two members of a committee of seniors elected by their respective homeroom classes.

Going . . . going . . . gone! As auctioneer Bruce Ross busily sold slaves, masters dragged their slaves out the door (background). Members of the Latin Club bought slaves during Latin Week to carry books, buy lunches, and do homework. But on Friday the tables were turned and the masters became slaves.

2B'S GO ALL THE WAY ON SADIE HAWKINS' DAY

What a mongrel-looking group, supposedly representatives of hill-dwelling Americans! Wilsonites celebrated the annual Sadie Hawkins' Day with a dance featuring the usual ragged attire, vegetable corsages and happy girls who caught their favorite man for a day, at least.

WOODROW WILSON — BIG D

A WILDCAT REMEMBERS

FOREVER —

Inscribed on our class ring are the words:
"Woodrow Wilson High School, Dallas."

Dallas and Woodrow Wilson—Everlasting memories for every Wildcat. Memories of wonderful high school days, countless events and honors, senior activities, graduation—all part of the WWW and Big D. In our book and through our theme the CRUSADER staff has made an effort to preserve the memories and joys of high school to each senior forever.

The CRUSADER staff wishes to thank many persons for their efforts: the teachers, for their cooperation; the office staff, for their assistance; the junior staff, for their help in indexing; Mr. John Ramsey, our Taylor representative, for his aid and encouragement; Mr. Smith and Mr. Malone, for their patient understanding; and especially Mr. Allen, for his inspiration and guidance—Thanks to so many people, who were so pleasant and helpful.

And so, as the sun sets on Woodrow Wilson and Big D, it is the hope of the staff that every Wilsonite might use this yearbook to remind him of the sunny days of high school life—the setting of the sun at commencement, and the promise of the dawn that follows the sunset and the night.
